

REDS 'WARM UP' OLD PEACE PLAN

Eisenhower Abolishes DPA

Order Removing Controls On Meat Due Tomorrow

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—The Eisenhower administration put the main industrial control agency out of business as a separate unit today and was reported pushing a series of sweeping orders to decontrol the bulk of consumer goods prices. Those orders are due to start this week.

The functions of the abolished Defense Production Administration were ordered transferred to the Office of Defense Mobilization, but the consolidation move obviously was a step in President Eisenhower's plan to end controls on materials and products except for highly essential defense items.

Meat Decontrol Due

The two moves together round out the series of economy steps already begun with dismissal notices to employees of the boards that have controlled wages and salaries.

Shortly before the White House announcement of the DPA move a top price official told a reporter two big orders in his field were in preparation, with Friday as the target date for the first one.

He said the intention is to decontrol all meat at that time, along with a list of other consumer items including canned fish and canned meat, children's and infants' clothing at retail, furniture at all levels of distribution, small electrical appliances, housewares, notions, phonograph records, venetian blinds, awnings and some other items.

Appliances May Be Next

With shoes, and men's and women's clothing already out from under controls, that order would just about end price ceilings on apparel items.

The official said the plan is to follow up, in two weeks or less if possible, with a second order decontrolling appliances, such as stoves, refrigerators and washing machines.

Joseph Freehill, price administrator, confirmed part of the official's report, saying in a statement that there will be a decontrol order this week, including meat. He said it was part of the program for "orderly decontrol."

Blockade Of Red China Coastline Under Discussion

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (INS)—The second step under consideration by the government today to implement President Eisenhower's campaign to end the Korean War is a United States naval blockade of the whole Red China coastline.

A decision to impose such a blockade has not been reached. In all probability it will be one of the major topics discussed when Secretary of State Dulles returns from his current European trip, Feb. 9.

The fact that the blockade is being discussed was made known informally to top congressional leaders and some foreign diplomats in Washington.

Young Slayer Given 15 Years In Prison

CAMBRIDGE, Feb. 4 (AP)—John Thomas Dobson Jr., 23-year-old Oxford, Md., youth, was convicted of second degree murder and sentenced to 15 years in the penitentiary today for the slaying of William Andrews, 41.

A Dorchester County Circuit Court jury deliberated about an hour.

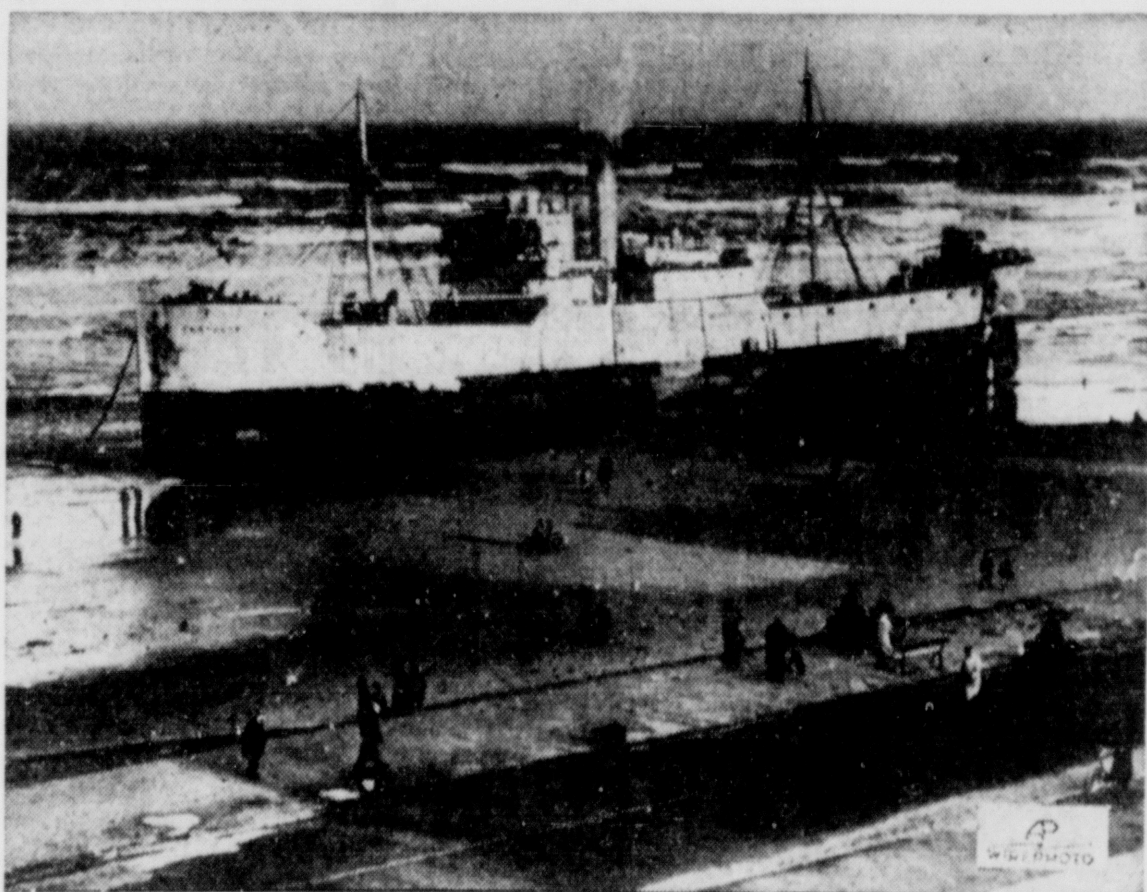

The state charged that Dobson killed Andrews Dec. 7 by dropping a 19-pound slab of concrete on his head and that robbery was the motive.

Senate Unit Votes Like Same Shakeup Authority HST Had

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—Spurred by a plea from Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), the Senate Committee on Government Operations voted unanimously today to give President Eisenhower the same power President Truman had to reorganize federal agencies.

The issue now goes to the Senate floor for final action, possibly on Friday.

Taft, the GOP floor leader, persuaded the committee to reverse its previous stand which would have made it easier for Congress to veto the chief executive's reorganization actions.

Curious Hollanders view the beached French coastal steamer Carthage, driven ashore at Scheveningen, near The Hague, by the gale-lashed seas which have devastated vast areas of Britain, Holland and Belgium.

State Dept. Probe Told Of Missing Lattimore Letter

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—Investigating senators unfolded today a tale of an Owen Lattimore letter mysteriously missing from State Department files and of orders by an official to burn a letter derogatory to a department employee.

Mrs. Helen B. Balog, who keeps the files on foreign service officers, testified about the letters.

She also said that John Stewart Service, later fired on grounds of questionable loyalty, had day and night access to the files for about a year.

Many Have Access To Files

Sen. Potter (R-Mich.) commented that was "like putting an arsonist in charge of a match factory."

The trim little witness, in brown suit and gold hat, said she didn't know whether Service took anything from the files. Files are used in such a manner, she said, there is ample opportunity for removing documents but no way of telling whether this really may have been done. Three or four hundred persons have access to the files, she said.

Mrs. Balog was the first witness as the Senate investigations subcommittee teed off in an atmosphere of mystery and suspense inquiry into what Chairman McCarthy (R-Wis.) called mismanagement of State Department personnel files.

Letter Labeled "Burn"

It was her assistant who called her attention last year or the year before to a letter with "burn" written on it in big red letters, Mrs. Balog said. She said the letter related to a Melville Osborne, whom she did not identify further. She told McCarthy that "yes, sir," it was "derogatory."

State Department publications list Melville Osborne as having been a vice consul in Guatemala in 1951 and as currently in Mexico City as an assistant attaché.

129,424 U. S. Casualties

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (INS)—The Defense Department announced today that 271 American casualties, including 53 dead, were reported in Korea last week, bringing the total since the war's start to 129,424.

USSR Conditionally Accepts West Bid For Austria Talks

LONDON, Feb. 4 (AP)—Russia today conditionally accepted the latest Western power invitation to attend the four-power talks Feb. 6 on the proposed independence pact for Austria.

Informed officials said the invitation was accepted in a long note addressed to the secretary of the four-power Council of Foreign Ministers which is based in London.

The British Foreign Office refused to disclose the contents of the Soviet communication.

The United States, Britain and France last week asked Russia to send a representative to the meeting of Big Four deputy foreign ministers here Friday.

They insisted there should be an unconditional yes-or-no answer to their invitation.

Committee OKs Smith, Conant

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—Gen. Walter Bedell Smith today won unanimous approval of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on his nomination as undersecretary of state.

The committee also voted without dissent to approve the nomination of Dr. James Bryant Conant, president emeritus of Harvard University, as U. S. high commissioner for Germany.

The nominations had aroused scattered opposition in Conant's case. It centered chiefly on assertions that the longtime Harvard president was "too bookish," as Sen. Mundt (R-S.D.) put it, to cope with the critical situation in Soviet-shadowed Western Germany. Othello opponents accused him of displaying a softness toward communism and said he offended some Roman Catholic leaders in this country in a Boston speech last April on private schools.

Criticism of Gen. Smith was based largely on his testimony supporting a State Department official who figured in a loyalty investigation.

Chairman Wiley told newsmen that Smith, questioned behind closed doors, spoke out in favor of shifting from containment to a policy of "determined opposition" against Soviet Russia.

Two Negroes Get Life Sentences In Slaying

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Feb. 4 (AP)—Two Negroes were sentenced today to life imprisonment for the slaying of a frugal old farmer who lived alone in a meager shack near Severna Park and kept his money on him.

Circuit Judge Benjamin Michaelson tagged Buster N. Day, 34, of Jones Station, as the author and ring leader of the plan to rob 77-year-old James Bassford.

Judge Michaelson sentenced Day and George Francis Tolson, 27, of St. Margarets to life terms.

Former Revenue Official Accused Of Evading Taxes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—Federal agents, tracking the financial trail of former Deputy Revenue Commissioner Carrol Mealey, today reported finding $13,095 of unexplained income during the first two years Mealey headed the alcohol tax division.

This, they told House tax scandal hunters, included more than $7,500 in reported cash, an automobile paid for by a one-time liquor dealer, a fur coat and an expensive television set.

Still to be unfolded before a House ways and means subcommittee is Mealey's spending during the other four years of his tenure, which ended in the fall of 1951 when he resigned under investigation by the subcommittee.

This is scheduled to be revealed tomorrow. Mealey was not present when Intelligence Agents Martin L. Webb of St. Louis and Charles H. Malmbury of Philadelphia began unfolding the results of a two-year combing of his financial affairs while top man in the alcohol tax agency. He is at his home in Albany, reported still suffering from a heart ailment. When he resigned he gave failing health as the reason.

Pilcher Leads In Ga.

CAMILLA, Ga., Feb. 5 (AP)—J. L. Pilcher, farmer and businessman, jumped far into the lead tonight as returns were counted in a special election to name a successor to the late Democratic Rep. Eugene E. Cox.

Demos, Saying State Collects More Than Needed, Act To Cut Tax Hikes

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 4 (AP)—Democratic legislators, who say the state is collecting more taxes than it needs, took two steps today to put a stop to it.

Del. Thompson (D-Dorchester) said the State Roads Commission is recommending collecting of twice as much taxes as needed for a 12-year highway building program. He urged the General Assembly to cut the proposed increases on gasoline and licenses in half and explained it can be done without taking a penny away from the state roads.

Sen. Melnicove (D-Balto 4th) announced he's inviting State Sen. Harry F. Byrd Jr. of Virginia to come to Maryland and explain how his plan for refunding surplus income taxes works. The plan now is in effect in Virginia and 11 Democratic Maryland senators introduced a similar bill last week.

Thompson said it "is incumbent on this Democratic legislature to do something about the obvious policy of tax, tax, spend, spend of the Gov. McKeldin administration." McKeldin is Republican.

The Dorchester delegate took the initiative at a hearing by the Ways and Means Committee on the highway building program. He said the financing proposed

Senate Okays Talbott As Air Chief, 76 To 6

Kefauver, Morse Rap Appointment

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—The Senate confirmed Harold E. Talbott as secretary of the Air Force today, completing the civilian high command in the Defense Department.

Sens. Kefauver (D-Tenn.) and Morse (Ind-Ore) spoke against Talbott's appointment on the Senate floor, but when the roll was called the vote was 76 to 6.

Talbott, a 64-year-old New York industrialist, agreed to dispose of substantial holdings in Chrysler Motors, Electric Auto-Lite and other corporations to qualify for one of the five big jobs at the Pentagon.

Hearing Was Reopened

His appointment was approved 14 to 1 by the Senate Armed Services Committee last Thursday, but Kefauver asked that the hearing be reopened to question Talbott about a World War I investigation of his aircraft manufacturing company and about the alleged high cost of auto parts the government has been buying from some of the firms in which Talbott is interested.

With Talbott's confirmation, the Pentagon lineup looks like this: Secretary of defense—Charles E. Wilson, former president of General Motors.

Deputy secretary of defense—Roger M. Kyes, former vice president of General Motors.

Secretary of the Army—Robert T. B. Stevens, former New Jersey textile manufacturer.

Secretary of the Navy—Robert B. Anderson, Texas cattle rancher and oil man.

Kefauver Not Satisfied

Secretary of the Air Force—Talbott.

During the confirmation debate Kefauver said he was not satisfied with Talbott's attitude regarding evidence that an Army procurement officer gave him firm secret and valuable tips on aircraft contracts during the First World War.

At a hearing Monday Talbott would not say the practice was wrong, but he testified that "as secretary of the Air Force I would not let anything like that happen again."

B&O Pays $2,991,000 On Controversial Loan

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad today repaid $2,991,000, plus interest, on its controversial loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corp.

This reduced the government loan, some aspects of which are now the subject of an 11-count federal grand jury indictment, to 65 million dollars.

The railroad is required to repay at the rate of $400,000 a year, but of late has been repaying at a much faster rate. Today's installment, retiring bonds which would mature in 1965, would represent about seven years' minimum payments.

Remington Given 3-Year Sentence

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 (AP)—William W. Remington, convicted tool of wartime Communist spies, was sentenced to three years in prison today for perjury.

"What was black is now white and vice versa," he complained without bitterness. "This conviction is unfair."

The handsome blond former government economist said he understood even the pleas of an ailing daughter that he confess wartime Communist spy activities to avoid the perjury indictment. But he added his principles would not let him take this way out.

Federal Judge Vincent L. Leibel continued Remington in $7,000 bail so he can appeal the latest prison sentence. Two years ago Remington upset a five-year prison sentence on appeal.

"Sometimes liberals may go too far to the left," Judge Leibel told him in sentencing remarks that carried an undertone of sympathy for Remington's bleak outlook at the age of 35.

Judge Leibel noted that the career of the one-time $10,000-a-year economist was wrecked and said, "I consider that part of his punishment."

Remington was convicted Jan. 27 of lying when he denied ever passing War Production Board secrets to Elizabeth Bentley's wartime Soviet spy ring. He also was convicted of falsely denying knowledge of Communist activities at Dartmouth College when he was a student there in the 1930s.

Dulles Sets Deadline For EDC Progress

Europe Risks Aid Cut Unless Headway Made

LONDON, Feb. 3 (AP)—U. S. Secretary of State Dulles is giving the big Western European powers 75 days to show real progress in setting up a unified defense or risk cuts in American military and economic aid, a qualified informant said tonight.

The April 20 deadline was disclosed after Dulles, in day-long meetings with British leaders, gave assurances that the United States will continue its policy of trying to limit the Korean War and sought to counter their criticism of U. S. action on Formosa.

Dulles came here from Paris and Rome and in each capital, the informant said, made it clear that Congress may balk at putting up more billions for Europe unless he and Mutual Security Director Harold E. Stassen can report advances in the project to place troops of six continental nations in a unified army.

Tomorrow the American officials visit Bonn on their swing around Western Europe and, the informant said, will set the same 75-day time limit before West German leaders.

Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden were told today that the next 75 days are critical for the future of Europe and were given the attitude of the United States toward it.

Dulles presumably set the deadline at April 20 because the North Atlantic Council of Foreign Ministers meets in Paris three days later.

If the European Defense Community (EDC) army project still remains a dream at that time, presumably Dulles would then re-define the United States' policy to its allies.

Britain is balking at full membership in the European army project, but today—while the diplomatic talks were going on—proposals for linking British forces to those of the EDC were conveyed to the six nations involved.

France, West Germany and Italy are the prospective key members. The others are Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. None has yet ratified the EDC treaty.

Boy Accused Of Putting Tie On Track Convicted

BALTIMORE, Feb. 4 (AP)—One of three boys accused of putting a cross tie on the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks here last Jan. 24 was convicted today in Juvenile Court of delinquency.

Judge Charles E. Moylan ordered a mental examination and social study of the 14-year-old boy.

A 15-year-old boy involved by the convicted lad was found innocent, and the case of another 14-year-old boy was set aside for further study.

Ben Ames Williams, Noted Historical Novelist, Dead

BROOKLINE, Mass., Feb. 4 (AP)—Ben Ames Williams, 63, nationally known historical novelist, collapsed and died tonight while engaged in a curling contest at the Brookline Country Club.

He evidently suffered a heart attack and died before a physician could be summoned.

A prolific writer, Williams put a tremendous amount of work into his novels.

A good example is "House Divided," his story of Civil War days. He spent 20 years on research, four and a half on the actual writing. This lengthy novel, published in

Gales Threaten To Expand Havoc In Europe Flood

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 4 (AP)—Fresh gales in the North Sea loosed new terror tonight along flood ravaged coasts of England, Belgium and Holland. High winds, high tide and rain threatened to expand the havoc wrought by weekend storms which claimed nearly 2,000 lives.

Amid winds up to 50 miles an hour, a driving rain broke over the devastated area of Holland—hardest hit of the three kingdoms. Gale warnings went out to all Britain's east coast. Thousands of families whose homes so far had escaped damage were under orders to get set for hurry-up evacuation. Belgian coastal dwellers were warned the night's winds would be violent.

Rescue Work Goes On

Against the sea's rising challenge, rescue work and reconstruction operations went on. Thousands of men, mud-caked and weary, struggled to finish repairing broken dikes before their hard gains were wrested away. Thousands of others battled to reach storm victims still isolated in the flood zones.

The revised three-nation death list, as compiled from official and reliable unofficial quarters, mounted to 1,829. Holland counted 1,259, England 546, Belgium 14.

15 Americans Dead

Known American dead in the English floods mounted to 15 with the recovery of the bodies of two women, a U. S. airman and a boy. Three others still missing are believed dead.

In Holland the new storm menaced the efforts of an amphibious rescue force which is laboring heroically to save the lives of thousands of men, women and children still trapped on broken dikes, trees and rooftops.

By boat, truck and helicopter, they have rescued many of the thousands marooned. But the task is by no means ended.

Plane Search Abandoned

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 (AP)—Search was abandoned today for a British airliner with 39 aboard missing since early Monday morning in the North Atlantic off Newfoundland, the U. S. Coast Guard said.

The aircraft was last seen on Jan. 24, and the search had been going on for several days.

Urge Fighting Halt And Truce Talks Resume

Proposal Follows Shop-Worn Terms

TOKYO, Thursday, Feb. 5 (AP)—Premier Chou En-Lai of Red China challenged President Eisenhower's new administration last night to agree to Communist proposals for ending the Korean War.

"If the new American administration has no intention to do so and continues to adopt policies of the Truman administration in Korea and intends to further enlarge and extend the Korean War," Chou warned in a belligerent speech, then "we are thoroughly prepared to fight it out with the aggressors to the last."

The speech of the No. 2 man in Communist China was broadcast by Peiping radio. Chou laid down these conditions:

1. "If the United States has the will and desire for peace in Korea she should unconditionally resume talks at Panmunjom."

2. Red China and North Korea "are ready for an immediate ceasefire on the basis of agreement already reached at Panmunjom."

3. "Thereafter we are prepared to discuss the question of prisoners of war at an 11-power political conference."

"Old Stuff," State Dept. Says

State Department officials in Washington termed Chou's proposal "old stuff," identical with the Soviet Russian plan which the U. S. turned down Dec. 3. They saw little possibility that the Eisenhower administration would reverse the U. S. stand for settling the thorny prisoner exchange issue before stopping the shooting.

A spokesman for the U. S. mission to the U. N. said in New York that Chou's proposal apparently was "just the same old Russian plan." He said the Western nations would continue to resist forced repatriation of war prisoners as a condition for armistice.

Observers in Tokyo viewed the Chou proposal as one put out mainly as propaganda for Asians. They pointed out that Peiping radio broadcast the speech only in the Chinese language on wave lengths beamed primarily to Asia.

Peiping's English language broadcasts included only the barest references to Chou's speech and made no mention of any ceasefire proposal.

Reaction Follows Policy Switch

The Chinese reaction came with unusual speed after President Eisenhower's order freeing Nationalist China to raid and harass the Red China mainland if it chooses.

Eisenhower, in his State of the Union address to Congress Monday, announced the lifting of the U. S. Seventh Fleet neutrality blockade in Formosa Strait. Formosa President Truman ordered the blockade June 27, 1950—two days after the Korean War started—to prevent Communist invasion of Formosa and Nationalist raids against Red China on the mainland.

Peiping radio followed up Chou's belligerent statement with more tough talk.

A broadcast heard in San Francisco charged that Nationalist President Chiang Kai-shek "begged the United States to use its Navy and Air Force to invade" Red China.

It said Chiang in a statement following Eisenhower's Seventh Fleet decision, said he would not ask for U. S. land forces to help in the war but pointedly omitted mention of naval or air forces.

The broadcast denounced Chiang as a "loyal tool of Eisenhower's scheme for 'Asians to fight Asians.'"

Jury For Jelke Trial Completed

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 (AP)—Pat Ward, the "teen-ager" who broke the big cafe society call girl case, said today "I'm going to be the best witness you've ever seen."

"I'm sincere, honest and truthful and I'm going to tell the truth," she told newsmen as she stood by to testify against Minot (Mickey) Jelke, oleomargarine heir allegedly turned vice procurer.

Section of an all-male jury was completed during the third day of a trial that has promised to rock New York night life regulars like nothing since the Charles (Lucky) Luciano vice trial of the 1930s.

After two alternates also were selected, General Sessions Judge Francis L. Valente recessed the trial until Friday, when Miss Ward may get her chance to testify.

The state alleges the handsome, stubby 25-year-old Jelke was ring master of a stable of cafe society's most dazzling beauties who sold their charms at prices up to $500 a night.

Heidt And Chauffeur Stopped After Chase

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 4 (AP)—Bondleider Horace Heidt and his chauffeur were stopped after a wild chase near here yesterday, and the chauffeur was charged with driving 95 miles an hour, the state highway patrol said.

Patrolman T. E. Posey said he had to run 100 miles an hour to catch Heidt's car after a seven-mile chase, and that he clocked the auto at 95 before making the arrest.

The car was driven by Anthony Vincent Giansanti of Hollywood, Calif., the officer said, but Heidt was riding with him. Giansanti was fined $25 and costs by Justice of the Peace R. T. Alford on a reckless driving charge.

Eighth Army Prepares To Change Leaders

SEOUL, Thursday, Feb. 4 (AP)—Fighting in Korea tapered on the ground and in the air Wednesday as the U. S. Eighth Army prepared to change commanders, possibly before the end of the week.

Lt. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, who will take over the Allied ground forces from retiring Gen. James A. Van Fleet, conferred at headquarters of the expanding Republic of Korea Army in Taegu. Simultaneously the Eighth Army disclosed that the 15th Republic of Korea Division, newly activated, had been in combat on the eastern end of the line.

Overcast skies hampered the Allied air effort.

Pheasant, Not Dog, Milkman's Enemy

WEYMOUTH, Mass., Feb. 4 (AP)—Some milkmen tangle with bad-tempered dogs—but Jack Crawford has to beat off an unpleasant pheasant.

The minute the pheasant—known as Felix—bears Crawford's truck he comes running—not flying—out of the woods as fast as his two legs will carry him.

He chases the truck like a dog until it stops—then chases Milkman Crawford.

Crawford usually carries a spare carrier to fend off Felix.

He never bothers the mailman, oil salesmen, or peddlers.

"He's a one-man bird," said Crawford.

Lie Says He Will Fire Subversives

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Feb. 4 (AP)—Secretary General Trygve Lie served notice today he will fire any U. N. employee he has "reasonable grounds" for believing is carrying on subversive activities against any of the 60 U. N. member governments or is likely to do so in the future.

At the same time, Lie informed the U. N. General Assembly in a 10,000-word report that he has the sole responsibility for hiring and firing U. N. workers. He said that, in justice to his staff, he must be given convincing evidence before taking action.

The report will be the taking-off point for a hot debate in the Assembly sessions beginning Feb. 24. India, Sweden, Norway, Egypt and other countries are expected to seek a thorough sifting of the whole personnel problem and especially Lie's cooperation with the U. S. loyalty check on Americans working here.

Hitting at accusations in the United States that the U. N. has a nest of spies, Lie said that the 3,000-man Secretariat works "in a glass house not only physically but in every respect."

"It is not a profitable place for spies and saboteurs," he said.

Legislators Report:

Services Have Four Times As Many Top Officers As In World War Two

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—There are about four times as many men in the higher officer ranks now as at the height of World War II when forces were two to four times bigger, witnesses told the House Armed Services Committee today. The Navy disputed the figures for that service, however.

The testimony was given in a hearing on legislation to repeal an amendment under which 5,400 senior Navy lieutenants face demotion on April 1 and 4,691 junior lieutenants are threatened with being frozen in rank.

Rep. Glenn R. Davis (R-Wis.), author of the controversial amendment, conceded there should be a revision to avoid blocking the careers of the young officers. His formula, written into an appropriation bill last year, puts a ceiling on the number of commissioned personnel the armed forces can have.

"But it would be a mistake to repeat it without other legislation," Davis told the committee. "This would be an open door to further abuse."

He said that in June this year the Navy will have about four times as many men of the rank of commander and higher as it had in June, 1945, which he said was a high point in war mobilization.

Rep. Norblad (R-Ore.), a member of the committee, put in similar figures, which he said were official, for the Army and the Air Force. About four times as many top officers for a current strength of around two million as the two services had for about eight million men during the war.

Single-Package Money Measure Proposed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—Forty-six senators introduced today a bill calling for handling of all government appropriations each year in a single one-package measure.

Sen. Byrd (D-Va.), chief proponent of the proposal, said today the aim of the bill is to permit Congress "to recapture a measure" of control over federal spending.

The 46 sponsors are only three shy of a clear Senate majority. The one-package bill was tried out by Congress in 1950 and then abandoned. Critics said it was clumsy and unworkable.

However, Byrd said the new measure has a fresh feature which he said was the key to real control over federal spending. This provision would require also past appropriations which Congress to write into the single have not yet been spent.

128 Get Jobs In January

One hundred twenty-eight job seekers were placed in employment in the Cumberland area by the local office of the Maryland Department of Employment Security in January, according to Francis A. Kenney, manager.

Kenney said 354 persons were referred to jobs, 231 locally and 123 out of this area. Information on the work placements out of the city was not complete at the end of the month.

During the month 57 employers were contacted to offer them the services of the agency and to discover the number of job openings.

At this time, the manager said there are very few employment openings. There are, however, positions available for stenographers and machinists. Kenney said there is a nation-wide shortage of machinists.

There were 6,979 visits made to the Employment Security office on Howard Street during January.

The number of persons registering for jobs in January was 2,299, Kenney said.

Also during the month 488 high school seniors in the county were given the general aptitude test battery.

Within the next ten days, the staff workers of the office will begin the counselling and test interpretation for these seniors, Kenney stated.

Motor Cases Plan Approved

Local trial magistrates yesterday voiced approval of a state-wide plan designed to get up-to-date information in the hands of magistrates on a driver's past convictions.

Gov. McKeldin listed the steps Tuesday night after conferring with police officials, magistrates and a representative of the Department of Motor Vehicles.

Under the plan, the motor vehicles department will continue to keep a record of violations. These will be photostated by State Police and kept at their Pikesville headquarters. When a magistrate in a county wants information on a defendant, he'll get it from the headquarters via State Police barracks teletypes located throughout the state.

In Baltimore City, police would have access to the records in the motor vehicle department, and photostated copies would be used for court purposes.

The set-up is meant primarily to inform traffic magistrates in cases of serious violations.

Those attending the meeting in Annapolis included Col. Elmer F. Munshower, state superintendent of police; Thomas B. R. Mudd, motor vehicles commissioner; Col. Beverly Ober, Baltimore police superintendent, and Dels. Pairo and Warner of Baltimore.

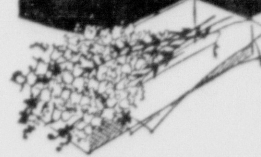

The loose-flowing outer garment worn by ancient Romans was called a toga.

Responsibility For Accidents

Novel laws aimed to establish protection for persons involved in traffic accidents with drivers who are uninsured and have no financial resources are up before state legislatures this year. The Maryland body is considering a "first fender" bill which provides that an uninsured automobile involved in an accident may be seized to pay judgments against the driver.

The Maryland bill would apply the "first plank" principle of admiralty law to motor vehicles. Under admiralty law when a ship is involved in an accident, claims arising out of the accident attach to the first plank and take precedence over all other claims against the ship.

A committee of the Pennsylvania legislature is studying a bill to establish an "Unsatisfied Claim and Judgment Fund" which would cover the injured party when the driver at fault in an accident just doesn't have the money to satisfy judgments. New Jersey already has such a law.

According to the Pennsylvania Department of Revenue, there are still 350,000 uninsured cars on the highways in the Keystone state, despite a financial responsibility law that has been in effect for the past three years. The fund in Pennsylvania would be maintained by automobile insurance companies and car owners.

Safety-responsibility legislation dates from 1928, according to the American Automobile Association. An AAA survey discloses that each of the 48 states and the District of Columbia now have laws requiring some measure of financial responsibility of drivers and/or car-owners.

Five states — Arkansas, Kansas, Massachusetts, Missouri, South Dakota — require proof of future responsibility from drivers following convictions and non-payment of judgments. New Mexico and North Carolina require such proof from any driver who has been involved in an accident.

The other 41 states have adopted an AAA-recommended "security" provision. In substance this requires a driver, after an accident, to make a report to the appropriate state agency, regardless of recklessness or violation of the motor code and whether or not any suit for damages has been brought. If the state agency decides the driver is not entitled to exemption, he must show his ability to pay damages for which he may be held liable as a result of the accident or lose his registration.

Atomic Progress

Semi-annual reports of the Atomic Energy Commission are usually notable chiefly for reticence. However, the current accounting to Congress, while meeting security requirements, offers revealing and reassuring glimpses of the vast operations which have such profound implications for the future of the nation and the world.

Progress has been made in the development of atomic power plants for driving naval vessels and aircraft. Without admitting that it has constructed a hydrogen bomb, AEC claims "high and somber significance" for the thermonuclear tests at the Eniwetok proving grounds in November.

While the destructive phase of atomic energy absorbs much money and effort, its constructive uses, which hold so much hope for mankind, have not been neglected. Thus AEC is able to report that development of reactors for industrial power made "longer forward strides" in the last half of 1952 than in any similar period in the 10-year history of nuclear fission. Construction of large reactors for plants and utilities is now no more remote than "a few years."

Important new sources for uranium are being developed, among them the phosphate rock of Florida and AEC hopes current exploration will yield others in the Black Hills area of South Dakota and in Wyoming and Colorado. Expansion in uranium production has made possible an increase in atomic plant construction.

Some indication of the scope of AEC operations is offered by its estimate that the nation's investment in atomic properties, plants and equipment will reach $7,500,000,000 by the end of 1953. Plant building, approximately $90,000,000 a month, accounts for five per cent of all construction in the country.

Prodigious though they are, the commission's expenditures are not out of line with what it has cost to develop other major industries, such as steel and automobiles. While AEC is not subject to the checks that would be applied in private enterprise, it is under the scrutiny of a watchful congressional joint committee, which seems to be satisfied that the nation is getting its money's worth.

Psychological Licks

What hand guides the nation's psychological warfare planning? That is a good question. A reporter asking it might burn a lot of shoelather around Washington trying to find an answer.

There is a group called the Psychological Strategy Board, an offshoot of the National Security Council, which is charged with the duty of developing psychological warfare projects for the State and Defense departments. But it doesn't necessarily follow that such projects are executed in whole or in part, or for that matter, at all. The best description of current planning along these lines is that it is a drifting, make-do policy.

President Eisenhower's new nine-member board, created to study present efforts and recommend new ways of unifying the present program and giving "a dynamic thrust," has considerable work ahead of it. In a period of "cold war" much information activity in foreign relationships, outside the purely military aspects, can be closely identified with psychological warfare.

Thus the scope of the inquiry would include such apparently unrelated items as the quality of the output of the "Voice of America" radio broadcasts and the approach which might be used by the Army toward Chinese and North Korean prisoners of war.

The personnel of the board leads off with William H. Jackson, an investment banker who was formerly a deputy in the Central Intelligence Agency and prior to that an Army intelligence officer. All members are civilians who will serve without pay.

It is apparent that the President feels there has been a lack of direction and ideas in the battle for men's minds and that it is time to take stock, and perhaps overhaul these activities drastically in order to get in some new psychological licks. If nothing else, the board should be able to point to places where overlapping, duplication and confusion exist. The object is to confuse the enemy, not ourselves.

How To Keep Well

Spinal Curvature In Children

Parents can prevent poor posture in their children by paying careful attention to the back. This is done by looking at the youngster's spinal column periodically and seeking expert advice should an irregularity be noted. Boys and girls between the ages of 9 and 14 are most susceptible because at this time growth is rapid.

Our spines are made so well it is difficult to conceive how curvatures develop. The bony segments consist of seven pairs of vertebrae in the neck, 12 in the upper back, and five in the lumbar area. These structures are held together with flexible, fibrous ligaments and muscles. Between each vertebra is a cushion of cartilage that allows every spinal bone to move by itself. This permits ordinary bending and strain, hence curvatures rarely are traceable to injuries, but tearing can occur if the parts are subjected to terrific force.

Muscle weakness on one side is a more common cause of abnormal curvature. As a result, the stronger muscle is given free rein and bends the back like a string on a bow. The initial curve is shaped like a "C" and as the child grows the body lengthens with a concomitant increase in the curve. This upsets body balance and to compensate the individual bends in the opposite direction by throwing the hip to one side or the other. Now the defect is "S" shaped and if allowed to continue will become noticeable ultimately.

Slight curving often is overlooked by parents until the youngster is ready for her first party dress; a correct fitting is impossible because one hip sticks out farther than the other. In others, the deformity is discovered because the ribs on one side bulge, in marked contrast to normal with all the vertebrae in line and no swelling in the rib area. Cues also are obtained by noting whether the shoulders are level, the hips symmetrical, and the legs equal in length. From the rear the vertebrae appear in line. On the other hand, when there is reason to suspect that the vertebrae are not in line, X-ray will settle the question.

Early treatment is advised because the spine grows harder and is less flexible with each passing year. In many instances, special corsets or braces will straighten the back; in others, surgery is needed but the results are worth the effort. The cosmetic outcome in itself is a tremendous morale builder. Furthermore, good posture is conducive to health. A proper distribution of weight lessens strain, minimizes the chance of future backache and foot trouble, and permits the internal organs to function normally.

CANT GO SOLO

Mrs. J. writes: I have a nice husband and two lovely children. Since my marriage I cannot go out alone as it makes me terribly nervous. How can I overcome this?

REPLY

Phobias require the services of a psychiatrist.

QUICKENED PULSE

L. P. writes: In the morning when I get up my pulse is 60. By the end of the day it ranges between 90 and 100. Does this indicate that the heart is disturbed in any way?

REPLY

No. It is normal for the pulse to quicken with any form of activity and it often goes up 10 points after eating. In your case, the anxiety associated with the rise also may be responsible for keeping up the rate. These factors are some of the pulse increasers and may account for the manifestations mentioned.

HEAT FOR SINUS

W. E. writes: Would it be safe to use a heat lamp to ease the pain of a sinus condition?

REPLY

Yes, but the exposure time should be limited to avoid burning. A lamp of this type never should be used unless somebody is standing by to shut it off in case the user falls asleep. More benefit seems to accrue from covering the face with a Turkish towel wrung out of hot water and then directing the heat rays over the towel to produce moist heat.

JUVENILE REACTION

D. G. writes: How can a person cure himself of fear of disease? During the polio epidemic I thought I had symptoms of polio and now, in the flu season, I think I'm developing influenza.

REPLY

There is no specific cure; the reaction usually wears out as a person gains in emotional maturity and common sense.

LIVER ENLARGEMENT

L. P. writes: I have an enlarged liver. Is there a cure? If so, what is the remedy?

REPLY

There are many causes for enlarged liver, and if you will be more specific, so will I.

U. S. Airborne Troops Scheduled For Okinawa; Artillery Shell Shortage Still Hampers Korea; Dr. James Conant Regrets His Decision

WASHINGTON — On the military timetable for the Far East are several important moves in addition to unfreezing the Chinese Nationalist fleet at Formosa. They include:

1. Sending two U. S. airborne divisions to Okinawa. From this point they could go on to Korea, if needed, or to reserve duty in Japan, or there's also the very remote possibility of use on the Chinese mainland. Okinawa is a focal point for all three.

2. Sending a major amount of supplies to Indo-China. This is the lollipop Secretary Dulles will hold out to the French. So far supplies to Indo-China have been merely in dribbles.

3. Transfer captive Chinese prisoners from Korea to Formosa if they want to; strengthen the Chinese Nationalist navy; send more supplies to China.

4. Dulles himself will go to the Far East in May.

It's believed that the threat of naval raids along the China coast, and the possible threat of airborne divisions on Okinawa may prevent the Chinese Reds from sending more troops and supplies into Indo-China, also more troops to Korea. The Far Eastern picture, according to the military planners, must be dealt with as a whole. The Kremlin does it that way, and we must do likewise.

Ammunition Shortage

In my files is a rather important memo which I have never published. It's dated Dec. 15, 1951. Part of it can be published now, because General Eisenhower, following his trip to Korea, touched on the same thing. The memo states:

"The whole U. S. Army is currently plagued with a most critical shortage of artillery ammunition. In the event of all-out war, we would have only five days supply of 105-mm ammunition. . . ."

This information was not published when I received it more than a year ago for the obvious reason that publication might have encouraged enemy attacks. Perhaps if it had been published, however, our production men would have been goaded into speeding up production.

For today, the situation, while improved, is such that it was one of the most worrisome factors found by General Eisenhower in Korea. Furthermore, the ammunition shortage is still such that the United States simply cannot send more supplies to Korea, and to Indo-China, and to other parts of the world all at the same time. We'll be lucky to have enough for Korea alone.

In other words, we can make all sorts of military plans but we can't carry them out until we lick our worst bottleneck—production.

Conant's Headache

Inside fact about Dr. James Conant's appointment as high commissioner to Germany is that he turned down the job once, said he could not leave his post as president of Harvard. In fact, the Eisenhower staff almost gave up the idea of appointing him.

Then Gov. Sherman Adams of New Hampshire said he thought they should make one more try, and that he would approach Dr. Conant again. He did so, telling Conant that Eisenhower was anxious to get the very top men of the nation to serve under him, and that no part of the world was more important for peace or war than Germany.

So President Conant yielded. Now, with a political storm raging around his head, he wishes he hadn't.

The Senate debate over his confirmation illustrates the same problem. Truman complained about, namely the difficulty of persuading good men to serve the government if they are subject to Senate attack.

The campaign against Conant was so carefully organized that copies of the Boston Post carrying an eight-column streamer headline against him were distributed by messenger to Senators' offices in Washington on the afternoon of the same day it was published in Boston.

Senator McCarthy also had researchers working in New York digging into every phase of Conant's life, with William F. Buckley, Jr., author of "God and Man at Yale," helping him on the side.

Matter Of Fact

By JOSEPH AND STEWART ALSOP

Drivel, Gentlemen, Drivel

WASHINGTON. More nonsense has been written about President Eisenhower "unleashing" Chiang Kai-shek than should really be allowed in a civilized country. It is time to set forth the honest facts.

President Eisenhower has instructed the Seventh Fleet to cease "neutralizing" Chiang Kai-shek's stronghold on Formosa. Formosa is to be protected from invasion by the Chinese Communists. But Chiang Kai-shek is now to be permitted to use Formosa as a base for attacks on the Chinese mainland.

This looks like, and has been ignorantly hailed as, a great change in American policy. In fact, it changes nothing, for the rather simple reason that President Truman's order "neutralizing" Formosa was strictly a ploy in the first place. If the Asia-first Republicans had not got drunk on their own propaganda, they would not now be crowing about President Eisenhower "unleashing" Chiang. Sober inquiry would have revealed to them that Chiang never has been leashed.

Attacks on the China coast originating in Formosa have, to be sure, been forbidden. But Chiang Kai-shek also holds the Pescadores, the island of Quemoy, and one or two other strong points that are much nearer to the China coast than Formosa is. These islands, being nearer, are much more useful bases than Formosa proper. They were not at any time included in President Truman's neutralization order. And Chiang has been using these islands as bases for attacking the China coast for a considerable period, up to the outer limit of his desires and military capabilities.

Smiles Worth Frowns

When the Chinese Communists entered the Korean War, President Truman and his advisors carefully considered taking the same action that President Eisenhower has now taken. They decided against it, on the ground that it would be an empty gesture. It is still a gesture. Its effects can be easily summarized. It has delighted the Asia-first Republicans and their admirers in the press, as a kind of token acknowledgment of the correction of their views. At the same time, it has caused the most widespread alarm both in Western Europe and the Far East, where our allies and potential allies are just as grossly ignorant of the real situation as the Asia-first Republicans are. The question arises, whether the smiles on the faces of the Asia-first Republicans are worth the equally unjustifiable frowns and head shaking among our allies.

Our allies were "notified" but not consulted. In Britain, this gesture of American domestic politics has already embarrassed the Conservative administration of Prime Minister Winston S. Churchill, and the British embassy here has registered "misgivings" with the State Department. Other repercussions abroad are to be expected. And while our allies were at least notified, it is noteworthy that the Democratic leaders in Congress got no advance word. Not the least interesting aspect of this new departure is the absence of any hint of bipartisanship in foreign policy, although the time will plainly come when the Eisenhower administration will need bipartisan support in this field.

What is still more interesting and curious is the further fact that President Eisenhower's policy-makers have not as yet considered the major issue raised by the change in the orders of the Seventh Fleet.

American Aid Required

The change plainly implies at least tacit approval of operations against the coast on a much larger scale than Chiang Kai-shek has yet attempted. Chiang has contented himself with pin pricks, so far, partly because he is a notoriously defensive-minded commander, but mainly because pin pricks are all he has been able to manage. He has perhaps 300,000 combat-weary troops, of whom perhaps 10 per cent are fit for commando-type operations. But he has neither the air power nor the naval power to attempt commando-type operations on a large scale.

Furthermore, manpower and other problems make it almost impossible for us to aid Chiang in a really significant build-up of his own air and naval power. If his armies are going to take real advantage of this so-called "unleashing," they are going to have to be carried to the China coast in American naval vessels, and they are going to have to receive American air support.

Combined, Sino-American operations against the China coast are certainly practical. They will be very dangerous. Above all, they will involve the danger of a wider war. But they are certainly worth considering as serious and quite practical steps to take. If they work, they will produce genuine results, and not just cheap partisan cheers, and needless embarrassments of American diplomacy. The point at present is that the pros and cons of these measures which will produce real results have not as yet been so much as discussed. Even now, in truth, the administration does not seem to have got down to the disagreeable business of serious policy-making.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—This administration is certainly getting down to business fast. Orders of far-reaching consequence are being issued without flourish or fanfare. And, what's more, there is actually harmony between President Eisenhower and Senator Taft and between the White House and Congress generally despite the efforts of some hostile factions in the press to exaggerate differences and magnify them into instances of alleged friction.

A case in point is the overwhelming vote of the House of Representatives just given to the President's request for a two-year extension of the present powers to reorganize federal bureaus.

The story of what happened is an illustration that is important for the country to know, because it tells more about the power and prestige and good sense of the present leadership in the White House than anything else that can be cited this early.

Ike Not Rebuffed

First of all, there was a conference between the President and top leaders of both houses of Congress last week. The proposal to extend the reorganization powers was mentioned. There was agreement that they should be granted but one of the leaders said there was a sentiment on Capitol Hill to change the existing law so that, when the President sent in a reorganization plan, it could be vetoed by a simple majority of either house instead of by a constitutional majority as at present. Mr. Eisenhower was dubious but one of the members present said he didn't think the point was material. So the discussion turned to other matters.

Within a few days, Joseph M. Dodge, the new director of the Budget, was testifying before a House committee and saying it was important to retain the constitutional-majority provision so that any veto would be exercised by an actual majority of the House or Senate. Otherwise, 25 senators or 110 House members could kill a reorganization proposal. It was a surprise to Mr. Dodge to find the House Republicans on the committee lined up solidly for the weaker form. The same thing happened the next day in the Senate committee.

Promptly the dispatches went out saying that President Eisenhower had been rebuffed. Then came word from the White House confirming stories that the President had acquiesced but that Mr. Dodge did not know about it when he testified. Rumors arose that the Republican leaders had let Mr. Eisenhower down by failing to explain the technicalities to him. And then the stories of friction were multiplied. The Democrats chuckled with a bit of premature glee.

What actually happened was this: the congressional leaders were quietly advised that, upon further advice from the Director of the Budget, the powers were deemed very important as a means of cutting expenses and that the President would like to have the same authority that Mr. Truman had, and he felt sure it could be exercised effectively.

Incidentally, the Republicans who wanted a simple majority were on the spot. Not long ago they were resisting, as a matter of principle, the efforts of some Democrats from the North and some of their own Republican advocates of a change in Senate rules who wanted a simple majority of 49 rather than a majority of 64 to end filibusters. So the Republican leaders couldn't go on record now as favoring a simple majority for reorganization and as opposed to a constitutional majority on civil rights issues and be consistent.

Anyway, the leaders of the Republican party in both houses recognized it as an honest misunderstanding of the President's position and set about to give him what he wanted—the same law that Mr. Truman had. The House by voice vote defeated the recommendation of its own committee for the simple-majority plan, and then by a record vote of 389 to 5 approved the whole proposal for a constitutional majority. Similar action is coming in the Senate.

This is an example of real co-operation and of the way differences are ironed out when they do occur. There are bound to be misunderstandings and occasional tangles but, if the spirit of teamwork is present, these will be overcome. The start, therefore, is auspicious.

Another example is the way Congress is receiving the news about how the loyalty program is to be administered. Each department is to have a loyalty and security board, but it will not be composed as heretofore of employees of the department trying a case. Also, overall control will be exercised by the attorney general, who, of course, has direct access to all Federal Bureau of Investigation data. This is a good, workable plan and Senator McCarthy of Wisconsin has expressed his approval.

This disposal also of the inaccurate dispatches which have been written for several weeks declaring that McCarthy's committee was to engage in a continuing "witch hunt" about disloyalty in the government. The Wisconsin senator told this correspondent last November that he had every confidence that the Eisenhower administration would set up methods of checking security and loyalty which would make unnecessary any legislative investigations of government employees. And that's what's happening.

It is significant that the Pres-

On The Line

by Bob Considine

NEW YORK—(INS)—The oldest morality play on radio, the Lone Ranger, celebrated its 20th anniversary the other day. We have at hand some perhaps vital statistics about the ranger, one of the few good masked men in our literature.

The Lone Ranger is listened to by about 12,000,000 each week in this country and Canada. He is seen by 5,000,000 on TV. He is the hero of a cartoon adventure strip appearing in about 200 newspapers with a total readership of 71,000,000. He is in books, on records, and endorses a disarming array of products—including clean living.

The Ranger's hold on the adult world went unnoticed, at least by men, until a late afternoon ten or 12 years ago. Babe Ruth had just finished playing a Red Cross charity golf match against Ty Cobb, through the intercession of Freddy Corcoran of the Professional Golfers Association. Babe has not seen Ty for a long time and was eager to chat with him.

But suddenly Babe looked at his watch, blanched, said he would see Ty later, and sped outside to one of Paul Carey's limousines. He leaped into the front seat, snapped on the radio, and demanded of the instrument that it warm up immediately.

In its own good time the radio began playing the overture from William Tell, and a voice announced that the Lone Ranger was riding again.

Babe never moved a muscle until the commercial. Then he turned around to those of us assembled in the rear of the car, and his face was something to see. He was streaked with sweat and concern. The commercial had interrupted the narrative at a point where the Lone Ranger was suspended by his tongue, or some such, from a trestle over which the 5:19 to Red Dog Gulch was about to pass.

"He'll never get out of this one," Babe mourned. Then for about two minutes he denounced the commercial announcer . . . and soon we were back with the Ranger. Right again triumphed over might; decency returned to the plains, and Babe was happy. He swore mightily that he didn't know how the Ranger did it.

Like Cobb, the Lone Ranger gained his fame in Detroit. He is the creation of a Detroit showman named George W. Trendle, a Detroit movie theatre man turned radio station owner. Looking around for new programs he felt that one which was needed was one appealing to children without lecturing to them or writing down to them.

He found a willing ally in Fran Striker, a Buffalo script writer, and between the two of them they came up with a combination of all the knights and fair-play boys in history. There seems to be some doubt remaining as to why they made him a man of mystery, but there's no doubt where the Lone Ranger stands on such matters of love, horses, womanhood, religion, the home, etc. That comes through pretty strong three times a week.

A treasured document sent out by Lone Ranger's creators on the anniversary contains an impressive list of his merits.

"The Lone Ranger never attacks from behind—or takes unfair advantage of an adversary," one part reads. He practices tolerance, it says, because his friend Tonto is an Indian. He can be strong, yet tender. As for religion:

"The Lone Ranger is not shown to be a member of any specific church, but he is definitely a respecter of all creeds. He 'emphasizes the sanctity of the home' and 'never smokes, never uses profanity and never uses intoxicating beverage.' In fact, the dossier asserts:

"The Lone Ranger never makes love on radio, television, in movies or in the cartoons . . . He uses precise speech. His grammar must be pure. He must make proper use of 'who' and 'whom,' 'shall' and 'will,' 'I' and 'we'."

I have chosen him for my model in 1953 and urge you to do the same.

Patricia Madden Is Being Entertained At Parties

Miss Patricia Madden is being honored at several pre-nuptial parties.

The fiancée of Elmer P. Metz, Jr., their wedding is to be solemnized February 14 at 10 a. m., in SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church, with Rev. Marius, O.F.M. Cap., officiating.

Miss Margaret Lee Lynch is entertaining with a shower February 12 at her home, Water Street.

Miss Charlotte Schriver was hostess at an informal party, Tuesday evening at her home, Arch Street. The bridal motif was carried out in the decorations with a miniature bride and bridegroom, adorning the cake. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rogers and Mr. and Mrs.

Earl Diehl presented the bride-elect with a blanket.

Other guests were Mrs. Gerald Miller, Mrs. Raymond Madden, Mrs. Rosalee Tolman, Mrs. Mary Harbaugh, Miss Joan Burke, Elmer Metz, Carroll Schriver, Miss Cathleen Schriver, William Winebrenner and Charles Abbott.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Madden are entertaining with a wedding breakfast for their daughter and her bridal party at their home, 529 Riehl Avenue, following the ceremony. They also will be hosts for a wedding reception at 2 o'clock, in the afternoon.

Business And Professional Women Compete In Contest

The Cumberland Business and Professional Women's Club is working to retain the membership trophy won last year.

Miss Anna Nicht, state president, gave the agenda for the next few months at the meeting of the local club, Tuesday evening at Central YMCA. Miss Kathleen Swann presided.

Miss Nicht reported a board meeting is being held February 28 in Baltimore. Anyone interested is welcome to attend. The state convention will be held in Easton, early in May. The speaker stressed the rivalry between Maryland and the District of Columbia clubs in the membership drive and urged the club to work to hold the Louise Dill trophy won last year.

Reports on the Ground Observation Corps were given by Miss Nan Livingstone, Miss Mary Alice Straw and Mrs. Elizabeth Hollis. They told of attending the corps meeting and the tour each was given, one from 6 until 8 p. m., another, 6 to 8 a. m., and the third 2 until 4 p. m.

The Membership committee was in charge of the program. Mrs. Hollis, cochairman, introduced the speakers, Miss Olive Hurlburt, Girl Scout executive secretary, who explained the Girl Scouts in Cumberland; Judy Reinhardt of Troop 9, who told what it means to be a Girl Scout; and Mrs. Mary Biddle, who spoke on what she gets out of being a troop leader in LaVale.

A program under the Legislation committee with Miss Ophra Bonita Pritchard is to be given February 17.

Dr. Castelle Wins January Series

The Knock-out team of Four championship is to be played tonight by the Western Maryland Bridge Association.

Sixteen teams with four and five on each team will open the first round at 8 p. m., in the ballroom of the Fort Cumberland Hotel, for the county championship. All teams are to play 24 boards and total scores, including honors will count.

Albert D. Heacock said last night. Two members of the team will play 12 boards against two members of the other team, then the other members of the teams will play the final 12 boards.

The eight teams winning tonight will arrange to play their next match within a week at any place suitable to all.

The January four week series was won by Dr. Paul Castelle; second place, Thomas Hannon, third, A. D. Heacock, fourth, Mrs. Paul Castelle; and fifth, George Ward.

The February series opens next Thursday night for three weeks only, February 12, 19 and 26.

All players not entered in the Team of Four championship, will play in Section B in a special Howell game at tonight's session.

Potentate's Ball Friday

The Past Potentate's Ball will be held by the Divan of Ali Ghan Temple tomorrow night.

A. Wayne Reed, Frostburg, past potentate, is being honored at the Ali Ghan Country Club.

The Ali Ghan Temple Band is presenting a concert from 8 until 9 o'clock. It will be under the direction of Erwin Lewis.

On The Surface, It's Spring

It's the look... the touch... the wonderfully elegant air of texture that "make" your coat this Spring. Soft as new pussywillow or nubby as tree bark... slim as a reed or full-blown as the first daisy - Exciting, different... expressive of the new season in every line. The merest suggestion of a hip-jacket... the luxury of a gently pared full coat—all rise to the surface of fashion in crisp tweed... silky faille... women-look boucle... tightly curled poodle. IT'S FOR SURE!

Now this top lets you test for fresher coffee!

Yes, if you can read and wriggle your thumb... now you can make sure you're getting fresher coffee every time. The news is right here on the top of this Chase & Sanborn can!

Here's all you do:

Look for this can next time you're buying coffee. Its round, firm top shows it's Pressure Packed... that the coffee inside has all its wonderful roaster-fresh flavor sealed in under pressure.

Then test for freshness...

The new top tells you how. You can't test flat top cans, can't tell whether air has leaked in to steal away flavor. Only the Chase & Sanborn can has plain, easy directions for testing before you buy.

Inside... best coffee you ever tried!

Man, what flavor you get in every cup of Chase & Sanborn! Richer flavor, because it's a skillful blend of more expensive coffees. More flavor, because it comes to you fresher. Get your favorite grind... regular, drip or glass coffeemaker. Enjoy the very best coffee ever!

Report Is Given On Water Sales To Industries

The City Water Department has big business just furnishing water to its industrial accounts.

A review of the records kept by the office staff of William J. Edwards, water commissioner, shows that during the past ten years $1,454,828 worth of water has been purchased by industries and outlying communities.

The total gallons in these ten years is staggering. — 22,441,333,000.

The largest amount for any one year was sold during the war year of June 30, 1943, to July 1, 1944. This was 2,308,189 gallons.

The next largest total was from June 30, 1943, to July 1, 1944 when 2,261,000 gallons was metered.

The largest amount for any one year during the past decade was between April 1, 1948, and June 30, 1949, the 15-month period that changed the city's fiscal year to conform with the state schedule, June 30 to July 1. The income for this long fiscal year was $177,960. Income and gallons sold for the ten fiscal years:

1942-43, $103,746 from the sale of 1,987,458,000 gallons; 1943-44, $116,843—2,261,509,000 gallons; 1944-45, $154,353—2,308,189,000 gallons; 1945-46, $142,555—1,885,143,500 gallons; 1946-47, $146,859 — 1,895,259,500 gallons; 1947-48, $146,481 — 1,838,980,000 gallons; 1948-49, $177,960—2,138,043,000 gallons; 1949-1950, $140,589, 1,667,594,000 gallons; 1950-51, 159,214, 2,054,435,000 gallons.

Dale Arner To Speak At Foresters Meet

Dale Arner of Frostburg will be on the program when the Allegheny Section of the Society of American Foresters meets in Philadelphia February 26 through February 28.

Arner, who is wildlife supervisor in Western Maryland for the Maryland Game and Inland Fish Commission, will talk on "Wildlife Management and Forestry."

Foresters will be present from Maryland, New Jersey, Delaware, Pennsylvania and West Virginia, according to William A. Johnson, district forester for the State Department of Forests and Parks in Washington, Allegany and Garrett counties.

Johnson said a number of Maryland foresters, including himself, will attend the event in the Sylvania Hotel.

A former Hancock man, David Sowers, a woodland research expert for the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, will present a paper on "New Woodland Harvesting Equipment and Its Effect On Woodland Management."

Johnson pointed out that one item of interest to local foresters will be a report on oak wilt, which has been located in several areas of Allegany and Garrett counties.

Revisions Made By City, SRC On Streets Pact

Revisions in the agreement between the Maryland State Roads Commission and the City of Cumberland were adopted at a meeting yesterday morning in the office of Mayor Roy W. Eves.

The changes were requested by Herbert C. Bowers, federal aid project engineer for the SRC, with the explanation that one proposal would save time in starting work on the proposed Frederick-Bedford street improvements and that others were unacceptable to the SRC.

Representing the city, besides Mayor Eves, were Commissioners William V. Keegan and William J. Edwards, City Engineer Charles R. Nuzum and City Attorney Thomas B. Finan.

It was agreed that the preliminary engineering plans would be omitted from the agreement which calls for federal aid and that the entire cost of the preliminary work would be borne by the city. The cost is estimated at $5,000. Bowers explained that the inclusion of this work in the federal aid program would delay approval of the contract by the Board of Public Works as so many small items would have to be checked prior to approval.

The SRC also asked the deletion from the agreement of the 90-day trial period for parking when the two streets are made one-way. City Attorney Finan said that this was thought to be the best way to find out which sides of the streets would be most acceptable for parking but Bowers said it was unacceptable by SRC standards.

Also requested by the roads commission representative was the definite designation of the one-way thoroughfares from Mechanic Street to the city line. It had already been decided that Frederick Street would be one-way north and Bedford, one-way south, but the agreement did not specifically state this.

Following discussion of the merits of each side of the street, it was agreed that parking would be restricted on the west side of both Frederick and Bedford streets. It had been agreed earlier that staggered parking, one side of the street in some particular block and the other side in another block, was the best solution to this problem but since

SRC approval was not definite on agreed that the west side of both streets would meet with most approval and provide the greatest safety.

Lonaconing Bill To Be Presented To Legislature

Fire Inspection Law Will Be Drafted

LONAONING — At a meeting of the Mayor and Council Tuesday evening, $50 was contributed to the Lonaconing March of Dimes drive and $25 to the Allegany County Heart fund campaign.

A petition from the Central Boosters Club favoring the retention of "Central" as the name for the new school, was ordered tabled.

James P. Love Post No. 92, American Legion, requested the policemen of the town to take charge of the raising and lowering of the American flag at the Soldiers monument. The matter was tabled for further consideration.

Barton Hose Company No. 1, Inc., of which Henry Howell is president, wrote the Mayor and Council regarding but service curtailment and asked that a letter of protest be written to the Public Service Commission.

City officials went on record as opposing the present bus service schedule informed the Public Service Commission.

A Robbins Street resident asked that a rail be placed on the wall along the creek. The Street Committee ruled the need was not urgent.

James Getty, town attorney, advised that the bill prepared for presentation to Legislature, will be introduced sometime this week by Delegate Noel Speir Cook.

He also will prepare an ordinance for inspection of building for fire hazards to give the fire chief the authority to make inspections and report to the mayor and council on fire hazards.

A street light has been placed on the road from Railroad Street near the Lauder residence.

Frostburg Urged To Buy Street Repair Machines

Haberlein Seeks Roller, Spreader

FROSTBURG — Paul C. Haberlein, street commissioner, asked the Mayor and City Council Monday night for definite action on the purchase of three pieces of equipment for repairing city streets.

Haberlein said a number of people are getting tired of mud-holes in the winter and dust in the summer from our streets.

Several months ago, the city agreed to purchase a tar distributor and at that time Haberlein requested that a small roller and a chip spreader be purchased.

He pointed out that with this equipment the streets could undergo periodic repair at a saving to the community. The council agreed Monday night to take some definite action.

Haberlein also pointed out that complaints had been received of the traffic hazard made by the contractor in building a parking lot for State Teachers College on Park Avenue. Several cars have been damaged. Haberlein was authorized to contact the college and inform them to have this condition corrected.

Police Commissioner Perry Myers submitted his report for January. The report follows:

Arrests, eight; investigation, 25; drunkenness, 12; traffic violation, 13; 17 warnings issued and 12 accidents reported; tickets issued, 339; warnings, 21; cases in court, six; convictions, five. Six funerals and two fires were reported. Fines collected for the month totaled $219. Parking meter collections totaled $391.72.

County Groups Discuss Vote On Water System

Election February 24 At Mt. Savage

MT. SAVAGE—Preparations for the referendum on the proposed water system for here were made yesterday by the Allegany County Metropolitan Sanitary Commission and the Allegany County Board of Election Supervisors.

The special election on Tuesday, February 24, will be conducted by the Board of Election Supervisors in the Mt. Savage Community Building.

Meeting with the commission in the county Commissioners' office at the Court House was William A. Wilson, chairman of the Board of Election Supervisors, and John M. Robb, attorney to the election board.

Eligible to vote are those persons qualified to vote in county elections and who live within the boundaries of the Mt. Savage Special Taxing Area as defined by an act of the General Assembly in 1951.

This referendum is on the proposed water system that was requested by a group of Mt. Savage residents in a petition to the sanitary commission.

A Washington engineering firm, Williams and Associates, from funds received from the General Services Administration of the federal government, has designed a system.

The total cost of the project will be $269,676, the commission announced. The construction cost would be $239,476; engineering, $16,216, and contingencies, $10,000.

This project must be approved by the majority of the qualified registered voters of Mt. Savage. Under the proposed plan a minimum water consumption charge would allow each connection the use of 60,000 gallons each year.

If a person would connect to the water system, his annual water costs would total $50,—$36 for the minimum water service charge; $10 for front foot benefit charge and $4 for ad valorem tax. The ad valorem tax is 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation while

Events Planned For Dimes Drive In Barton Area

Dance Scheduled For February 11

vass by members of the Girl Scouts will be made this Saturday in conjunction with the March of Dimes drive being held here.

On Wednesday, February 11, a dance will be held in the firemen's armory with "Doc" Kenny and his orchestra donating their services for the affair.

The March of Dimes committee met Monday evening in the fire house of Barton Hose Company No. 1 and outlined plans for the campaign here and in the immediate vicinity.

Presiding at the meeting was David Kirk, who reported on the various organizations of the community which have stated they will sponsor social events for the drive.

Miss Elaine Myers is secretary and William Hyde treasurer. Mrs. Robert Derham will conduct a drive in the Mill Run area, assisted by a group of women there. Mrs. Carson Thomas, Miss Lillian Kiddy and Mrs. Helen Jenkins will conduct a drive in the Moscow-Nikep sector.

A film is being shown at the Barton theater showing work being done by the contributions to the annual Dimes drive. The businessmen are being contacted here by Forest Mowbray. Last year $705 was turned in by the drive conducted here and in nearby sections.

Wanted: Used wheelbarrow. Phone Frostburg 103-J. Advertisement N-T-Feb. 5 and buildings along the way will be incorporated into attractions for tourists. The road will be a freeway and not a toll road.

The idea is a project to develop the recreational potential of this area, to preserve the historic significance of the old canal, and to provide a level-grade road around the mountains joining Route 40 at Hancock and Cumberland.

This 10 million dollar gift from the federal government can be acquired by the state for less than $400,000.

$400,000 Top Cost

This $400,000 figure is considered the maximum cost to the state and is the estimated cost of the 4100 acres of land along the strip which the state must buy and deed over to the National Park Service.

Russell H. McCain, chairman of the State Roads Commission assured the group assembled with Senator Kimble that the state can buy this land, using its right of way department to do the job and road funds already set aside for right of way purchases.

Joseph D. Buscher, attorney to the State Roads Commission said this is practical and possible, except that legislation must be passed authorizing the State Roads Commission to deed the 4,100 acres to the state, after it is acquired.

It was at this point that Senator Kimble remarked, "it looks as if we have really found Santa Claus. Here is a sensible plan by which Maryland can obtain a $10,000,000 road and national park development for less than $400,000."

At this remark, Thompson said, "this same pattern has been followed in Virginia and other states where recreation facilities and parkways were developed by the federal government. There are no strings attached, and so far everyone has been happy with the program."

Kimble asked Buscher to prepare the necessary legislation for the right of way transfer and members of the Allegany County Delegation who were also present at the meeting assured him of their unanimous support in the House.

Gorman Getty, attorney to the Board of County Commissioners suggested that U. S. Senator John Marshall Butler be contacted immediately and requested to lend his support to Senate Resolution 711 and that he be urged to assist Senator Beall in his efforts in behalf of the parkway.

Thompson assured the group that if the state will give the right of way question the green light, the Park Service will immediately launch the project in Washington and work can be started at several points in less time than many realize. The parkway project has a high priority rating with the Park Service, he said.

Attending the meeting from Cumberland were W. Earle Cobey, of the Industrial Promotion Committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce; Earl Chaney, a director of the Chamber of Commerce; Chelsea Liller, area businessman; F. Allan Weatherholt, of The Cumberland News.

William H. Lemmert, president of the Board of Allegany County Commissioner; Gorman Getty, attorney to the county commissioners; Thomas B. Finan, engineer; Anthony Saell, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, and Francis Kenney, local Maryland Employment Security manager. Hancock was represented by Mayor Lemuel Kirk, Councilmen Galen Funk, Eugene Kershner and Howard J. Grove; Legion Commander Harold Shaw, Harry Powers, Jr., John Nimick, and James Montgomery, president of the Hancock Business Men's Association. Kirk and Montgomery assured Senator Kimble and the Cumberland land group that they are willing to do anything toward the completion of the project and asked to be kept fully informed.

Tennis Pro Interested In San Francisco

Negotiations Are Now Being Made For 49ers; Grid Owner Is Sick

CLEVELAND, Feb. 4 (AP)—Jack Kramer, professional tennis champion, confirmed reports today that he is interested in buying the San Francisco 49ers, pro football club.

Kramer was in Cleveland with his touring pro tennis troupe, which includes Pancho Segura and the Australian stars, Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor.

Kramer said that negotiations involving himself and three unnamed associates now are being carried on in San Francisco relative to the purchase of the 49ers.

The pro champion said he was being represented by Frank O'Gara, former Philadelphia sports writer, who is handling publicity for the tennis tour.

Kramer made it clear that no deal has been made as yet, but added that if he did buy the football club he still would devote plenty of time to tennis.

The 49ers are owned by Victor and Anthony Morabito of San Francisco.

Anthony Morabito announced last fall that he wished to sell the club because his physician had advised him to quit football, following a heart attack.

Carl Wise Signs Three-Year Pact As W-L Coach

LEXINGTON, Va., Feb. 4 (AP)—Carl Wise announced late today he was signing a new three-year contract as head football coach at Washington and Lee University and was rejecting an offer to join the University of North Carolina grid staff as an assistant under his old boss, George Barclay.

Wise's announcement ended nearly a week of indecision by the 36-year-old coach over whether he should leave W&L and accept what he termed "tremendous opportunities" offered by North Carolina.

The new contract includes a "substantial increase" in salary and broader administration powers.

Ezzard Charles Scores TKO Win

DETROIT, Feb. 4 (AP)—Sharp-shooting Ezzard Charles methodically cut Tommy Harrison of Los Angeles down tonight and stopped him in the ninth round to continue his bid for another shot at the heavyweight title.

The game ex-GI Harrison took terrific punishment all the way as he was floored for an eight count in the eighth and was cut about the nose, mouth and left eye when Manager George Parnassus signalled that his fighter was through.

Harrison who came in at 181½ for this ten round bout gave away five and three quarter pounds to the more experienced ex-champ and got a sound boxing lesson.

Legion Posts 2-1 Win In Shuffleboard Loop

The pacesetter Frostburg American Legion outfit hung up a 2-1 victory over Pocahontas in an Allegheny County Women's Shuffleboard League match last night. Phyllis Geis paced Frostburg with 26 while Alta Ehrbar posted a 22 for Pocahontas.

In other matches, Golden Nugget stopped WOW 2-1, the Moose won over Purple Heart 2-1, Clingerman's blanked VFW 3-0 and Cresap Tavern bested Stadium Inn 2-1.

Top scorers were "Chop" Spates, Golden Nugget, 19; Willard Auvil, WOW, 17; Dot Smith, Moose, 17; Grace Shaffer, Purple Heart, 19; Virginia Huff, Clingerman's, 29; Tillie Abrams, VFW, 12; Blanche Lee, Cresap Tavern, 20; and Pat Green, Stadium Inn, 22.

Bruce May Scores 30 As Hyndman Triumphs

HYNDMAN, Pa., Feb. 4—Hyndman's Bruce May personally accounted for 30 points last night as Coach Cris Stoner's aggregation won its eighth game in 18 starts here tonight with a 55-46 decision over the Fort Hill High School Jayvees.

Fort Hill led Hyndman 10-9 at the close of the first period but after Hyndman broke a 17-all tie in the second stanza the winners were never headed.

Hann was high man for Fort Hill with 16 markers.

In the preliminary the Hyndman Jayvees topped Fort Hill Junior High quint, 58-41. The lineups:

MOTHER RACES STOCK CARS—Mrs. Sara Christian, 34-year-old mother of two children whose idea of relaxation is stock car racing, poses here with her son, Tommy, 5, and daughter, Patricia, 15. Tommy is official mascot of NASCAR and is seated in his own one-cylinder racer. Mrs. Christian, who has driven against many of the best male stock car drivers, will attempt to break the measure-mile stock car record of 100.28 miles per hour during Daytona Beach's Speed Week, Feb. 8.

34-Year-Old Mother Relaxes Driving In Stock Car Races

Mrs. Sara Christian Eyes New Speed Mark

ATLANTA, Feb. 4 (AP)—A mother whose idea of relaxation is roaring around a race track with the footpelt on the floorboard, hopes to set a stock car speed record next week.

She is Mrs. Sara Christian, trim 34-year-old brunette who claims the distinction of being the first woman to compete in a race sponsored by the National Association of Stock Car Automobile Racers.

She has her eye on the measure-mile stock car record set at 100.28 miles per hour by Joe Littlejohn of Spartansburg, S. C. in 1950.

Mrs. Christian, who has driven against some of the best men on the stock car grand circuit, will make her bid for the record book during Daytona Beach's Speed Week, Feb. 8-15.

She and her husband, Frank, who has been dabbling in stock car racing as a sideline-hobby since 1938, think she can better the record. She will drive a 1953 Oldsmobile.

Mrs. Christian first started racing in 1949 to help a friend promote a track near Atlanta. Later that year she drove a borrowed car in a race at Charlotte, N. C., but motor trouble forced her to drop out.

"After my first race, I knew I wanted more of it," she said. "It's hard to explain. It's not so much the thrill or excitement of speed and competition. I think what I liked best was its relaxing qualities."

She laughed, then added: "It's funny, but driving — even race-driving — relaxes me more than anything else. Oh, I'd be nervous as a cat until the flag fell, then I'd be perfectly calm, nothing on my mind but the race. If I get tense now, I can get in the car and drive around for a few minutes and it'll relax me completely."

The game ex-GI Harrison took terrific punishment all the way as he was floored for an eight count in the eighth and was cut about the nose, mouth and left eye when Manager George Parnassus signalled that his fighter was through.

Harrison who came in at 181½ for this ten round bout gave away five and three quarter pounds to the more experienced ex-champ and got a sound boxing lesson.

14 Yankee Games To Be Telecast

Brownies Left Out Of Night Schedule

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 (AP)—Now it's official that the St. Louis Browns, still stubborn holdouts on the TV-pay issue, will play no night games at Yankee Stadium in 1953.

The New York Yankees, announcing a 14-night game schedule today, insisted their action was not a "retaliatory" measure. They explained commitments with their TV sponsor called for telecasts of at least 14 home night games.

President Bill Veeck of the Browns, holding out for a share of TV receipts on the road or no TV at all, has refused to permit any Browns' games to be televised. The St. Louis Cardinals are following much the same line in the National, although they have signed agreements with Chicago and Cincinnati.

To make up for the absence of the Browns on the night schedule, the Yanks added an extra game with Boston and Cleveland. With the Red Sox and Indians now listed for three night dates and all the other clubs except St. Louis down for two, they have their full 14-game program.

St. Louis, as usual will play 11 games in New York—all in the daytime and none on television. To fill out their TV schedule the Yankees expect to televise the other 66 home games, adding some 12 or 13 road games for which negotiations still are in progress. All of the road games to be televised will be at night, except the presidential opener at Washington Monday, April 13.

Shuffle Race Close, Six Matches Tonight

Only three games separate the first five teams in the Allegheny County Men's Shuffleboard League as 12 of the 14 clubs prepare to "shoot it out" tonight.

Purple Heart Club heads the procession with a 39-15 record but does not swing into action until Friday night when it hosts the Woodmen of the World.

However, the four leading contenders will see action tonight. The Cumberland Amvets, tied with Cumberland V.F.W. for second place (37-17), meet Hann's Tavern at the Amvets Home while the Vets host the Hi Dee Club.

The Alhambra Club, deadlocked with Stadium Inn of Frostburg for fourth place (36-18), battles the American Legion in the Mountain City while Stadium Inn engages the Frostburg K. of C. at the Inn.

Other Thursday night matches find the Goodfellowship Club at Fisher & Robinette and the Golden Nugget, Frostburg, at the Mt. Savage V.F.W.

A's Drop Robertson

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 4 (AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics today announced the unconditional release of Outfielder Sherry Robertson.

Robertson, obtained from the Washington Senators on waivers early last season, batted .290 in 44 games.

Kinder Is Signed

BOSTON, Feb. 4 (AP)—Ellis Kinder, veteran Red Sox right-hander who was hampered by injuries last season, today signed to pitch for the Boston American Leaguers this summer.

City Rec Loop Scores

In City Recreation League basketball games last night at Fort Hill, Paramount defeated Sears 23-19, the Backshops turned back Marine Reserve 36-24 and Tri-State Roofing trimmed Souder's 35-21.

LONACONING, Feb. 4 — Hill Top Rec League leaders scored victories this week to maintain their neck and neck race for the title of the six-team basketball circuit.

Both Scotch Hill and Church Hill were victorious, the former smashing Screens Hill's winless cellar-dwellers, 54 to 11, while the latter just edged Big Vein Hill, 20-19.

Cokey Robertson, who last week tied the individual scoring record, set a new mark this time for Scotch Hill as he racked up 29 points.

John Foote paced Big Vein in a losing cause with 16 points for runner-up honors in the three games.

In the third league contest, another one-point margin of victory was registered when Detroit topped Buck Hill, 27-26. A final period rally by Buck Hill just fell short of tying the score. Shaw paced the winners with nine points. The lineups:

Stydahar Appoints Two Football Aides

CHICAGO, Feb. 4 (AP)—Joe Stydahar, new head coach of the Chicago Cardinals football club, was welcomed by sports writers today and immediately named two west coast men as his aides for the 1953 season.

Dick Gallagher, head man at Santa Clara last season, was named end coach, and Ernie Jorge, head coach at the College of Pacific, was appointed to handle the line.

Stydahar formally signed a three-year contract for an estimated $17,000 per year.

The former coach of the Los Angeles Rams succeeds Joe Kuharich, who was relieved of his duties last week.

Cage Group To Meet

National Approved Basketball Officials will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock at Central YMCA with Bobby Cavanaugh presiding at the business meeting. Area coaches have been invited to attend a conference which will follow at 8 p. m. when a discussion of the mechanics of officiating as related at the recent clinic in Hagerstown will be held.

Bolt Is Favored

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 4 (AP)—Tommy Bolt, the tempestuous Texan, and Cary Middlecoff, the golfing dentist, shared the favorite's role today as the star-flecked winter tournament brigade held final warmup rounds for the $10,000 El Paso Open which begins tomorrow.

Germans Play Tiremen Here Sunday Night

Leland Byrd Star Of Clarksburg Five

Cumberland's Old Germans, sporting a seven-game win streak, will go after victory No. 9 Sunday when they host the Clarksburg Tiremen in an 8:30 p. m. battle on the SS. Peter and Paul court.

Clarksburg, featuring several former West Virginia University cagers including Leland Byrd who played here against the local quint as a member of Wheeling's Blues in the now-defunct All-American Pro Basketball League.

The Tiremen will have Ken Alessi, Sam Berry, Bob Hardman, John Fox, Harry Moore, "Cotch" Schimide, Ed Reed and Jack Hines on their roster in addition to Byrd.

Byrd has played in the National Basketball Association for the past two years and has returned to West Virginia University to work on his master's degree. He is a former teammate of Roy Lester, Cumberland center, and Allegheny High School football coach.

The preliminary tilt has not yet been scheduled, officials of the Germans said last night.

Steubenville Five Tops Frostburg

Last Quarter Rally Wins 70-59 Contest

FROSTBURG, Feb. 4—A fourth period rally gained Steubenville Teachers College a 70-59 victory over Frostburg State Teachers tonight on the loser's court.

Frostburg led throughout most of the game and entered the final quarter tied with Steubenville 49-49. The Ohio quint outpointed Frostburg 21-10 in the last 10 minutes to gain the triumph.

Brownlee, Ohio center, was the game's high scorer with 21 points, seven coming in the last three minutes after Frostburg pivotman, Jimmy Hicks, fouled out of the game.

Jack Barham paced Frostburg with 19 tallies.

In addition to Hicks, Barham and Scheider of Steubenville also exited via personals in the final stanza.

American League AT THE TRACKS Pilots Point For Yankees, Indians

Stengel Is Concerned Over Ailing Rizzuto

The Yanks and the Indians—every manager in the American League is pointing for them as they formulate plans for the 1953 pennant race. Their hopes on problems and prospects are presented herewith in the second of articles.

BY CHARLES EINHSTEIN

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 (INS)—Casey Stengel has an idea that the pennants get tougher as you go along.

"The other fellows will be stronger," says the manager of the New York Yankees, "and it won't be easy to win our fifth straight pennant."

Thus, plans the Old Professor, there'll be no profit in a slow start. "We're going to have to be in top shape right from the start," he says.

Concerned Over Rizzuto
Lefty Ed Ford, returning from the Army, should help the Yankees' pitching picture, but Stengel is frankly concerned over his shortstop, Phil Rizzuto is 34 years old, troubled by stomach ulcers, and getting no younger.

"Keeping the little fellow able to play will be quite an important job," Stengel said.

Overtaking the Yankees is the problem of Manager Al Lopez of the Cleveland Indians.

"I think if Luke Easter's legs hold up at the start of the season as they did in the last half of the year, we'll be all right and really have a chance."

Then Lopez added, in what may stand as a masterpiece of understatement:

"We are going to try to improve our fielding. It was poor last year and hurt our chances."

Richards Stresses Speed

The Chicago White Sox, with a recent reputation for speed on the basepaths, are going to keep right on running. Manager Paul Richards will stress it in spring training.

Jimmy Dykes of the Philadelphia Athletics says that he is counting on third base rookie Hal Bevan, who broke his leg early last season. He was hitting .333 at the time.

The youth movement is on in Boston. Manager Lou Boudreau insists his team will be better in 1953 than it was in '52, but the big problems will be "inexperience and pitching." Lou says the Red Sox' first division hinges on youngsters like Sammy White, Ted Lepcio, Dick Gernert and Jim Piersall.

Marty Marion of the St. Louis Browns feels that off-season acquisitions have improved his club's chances, and Bucky Harris of the Washington Senators wants to "win enough games" to crash the first division.

As for Fred Hutchinson of the last-place Detroit Tigers, he plans to have his team attend "night school" in addition to morning and afternoon sessions at spring training in Lakeland, Fla.

He will emphasize the following matter during spring training: "Baseball."

Musial Thinks Ted Will Return

BOCA RATON, Fla., Feb. 4 (UP)—Sten Musial, St. Louis Cardinals outfielder and National League batting champion, said today he believed Ted Williams could return to baseball and dominate big league batting again.

"Williams, former Boston Red Sox star, is a captain in the Marine Corps and arrived in Korea Monday."

"A good hitter can go right on hitting until he's 40 or older," said Musial. "And Williams, in my book, is the best in the business."

"He can come back again, easy. Williams always keeps himself in condition and, with a guy like that, the eyes and reflexes will be sharp for a good many years yet."

NYU Cage Star Dropped From Team

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 (INS)—New York University removed Junior Ralph Naimoli from its basketball team today for hiding a semester on the freshman squad at Villanova before he entered NYU.

Athletic Director James Gilloon said the ban was made immediate although Naimoli, a Violet regular, technically would have been eligible the remainder of this season. The term at Villanova—two years before he entered NYU in September, 1950—was called to Gilloon's attention by the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference.

Convention Is Set

LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 4 (UP)—The annual convention of the National Association of State Racing Commissioners will be held June 7-12 at Boston. Dates were announced by Thomas J. Beedem, chairman of the convention committee.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 (INS)—The real reason Mamie Eisenhower did not attend the Washington premiere of "Never Wave at a WAC" starring her good friend, Roz Russell, is because the theatre segregated seats for Negroes.

However, "Never Wave at a WAC" was the first picture shown in the White House since the advent of the Eisenhowers — really something for Rosalind and Freddie Brissson to be proud of.

Freddie leaves soon for Spain to arrange about Roz' next picture—but if what the out of town critics say about her musical "Wonderful Town" is true, it will be a long time before she leaves Broadway.

After being in and then out of "The Robe" Jean Simmons is back again at 20th Century-Fox. RKO finally agreed that the Frank Ross film could be Jean's one "outside" picture. She sets her own terms financially and gets to keep it all.

However, she is still technically held for three pictures at RKO in which they set the deals and arrange the loanouts.

Hollywood chit-chat: Joan Fontaine and Bill Dozier have amicably settled the custody of little Debbie. She's been in New York with Bill over seven months.

California's handsome Lt. Governor Goodwin Knight with the very lovely Mrs. Virginia Carlson several times lately at Charley Roy's.

What an honor for Jack Benny. He planes out tomorrow night for Washington M. C. The radio and TV correspondents dinner for President Eisenhower and the Cabinet Saturday.

Readers of Photoplay Magazine made it practically a clean sweep for "With a Song in My Heart," voting Susan Hayward, the picture and Director Walter Lang the "most popular" of the year.

Nancy Sinatra gave a beautiful dinner honoring the 25th anniversary of the William Peribergs, two of the nicest people anywhere.

I'm about to sue Leone's for losing my figure. I've never tasted such good Italian food. The restaurant was introduced to me by Millie and Bob Considine.

Went on to the theatre to see "Mid-Summer" and stopped backstage to visit Mark Stevens, who gives such a splendid performance. Mark told me he had never danced a step in his life until opening night.

Bob and Mary Cummings were back to see him. Ben Hecht's little girl Jenny, is uncanny. She's 9 years old and a terrific trooper. Annette, Mark's pretty wife, was also there.

I have already had my say about Geraldine Page, who is a sensation.

Snapshots of New York: The Mitchums are in town for a few days, then Dottie and Bob head to Baltimore to see her family.

Anne Jeffreys and Bob Sterling open at the Waldorf where I hang my hat. I saw them at the Stork. Bob's very thin and is just recovering from a bad case of flu. Mollie and Charlie Berns hosted a delightful party in honor of Ben Lyon at "21." Ben's old pals were there to welcome him. He is one person who never changes.

Marlon Brando will be best man at Judy Balaban's marriage to Jay Kanter. Judy used to like Monty Clift, Marlon's pal.

Doretta Morrow and Bryon Palmer really took the title "Because You're Mine" seriously. They met when they appeared in that movie and now Byron is coming to New York to see Doretta who's singing at the Cotillon Room in the Pierre Hotel. The two singers will be married in May.

Nina Foch is an every day item with Bill Harbach, TV producer. His father, Otto, is head of ASCAP.

Ethel Merman was dining at the Chantrel Restaurant with Paul O'Dwyer, the ex-mayor's brother, but they aren't a twosome. He's her lawyer.

The gag of the week was on Milton Berle's TV show when Frank Sinatra brought out a shrunken head he had brought back from Africa. "It was Clark Gable," he confided. "Do you think I would leave him with Ava?"

I hear that Jay Richard Kennedy's novel, "Prince Bart," to be published in the spring, is based on the life of an actor pal of his who died last year (John Garfield).

Billy Eckstine leaves soon for France where he'll make an independent movie. Billy Rose wants the crooner for his revival of "Carmen Jones."

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

A leather strap makes this new series of exercises different and far more effective!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

A big plus in our new set of re-contouring exercises designed to help you gain the form divine is an exercise partner — a leather strap. It gives you something to work and tug against, like a sparring partner, or gym teacher whose watchful eye keeps you from lapsing into a listless manner of working. Any flexible strap will serve the purpose — fasten two leather belts together and you have a perfect, resistive, work out partner.

Another plus of this current series is that it is very selective. You can increase or decrease any one of your particular measurements as needed. Today's exercise is dedicated to the proposition that any woman can have a slim trim, attractive waistline. If you'd like to take two inches off your waist before buying your new spring wardrobe, take your leather strap in hand and run through the following:

Waist Whittlers

1. Plant your feet well astride. Holding the strap with both hands, raise your arms wide apart overhead. Pull the strap taut and hold it taut throughout the entire routine. A the same time, pull outward as hard as you can with both hands. Tugging against the strap is the secret of getting results and getting them fast.

Keeping erect, twist in the waist

Reaching Your Goal

2. Sit tailor fashion on the floor. Raise the strap overhead as in the above exercise. Twist and bend to the right and try to touch your left hand to your right knee. Repeat on the opposite side. Ten times is plenty as a starter, but increase gradually to thirty per day. Always remember that only slow motion and a real outward and downward pull will give you maximum reduction.

It always has been common knowledge that men from Hoboken, N. J., are unusual (Frank Sinatra and one famous newspaper columnist are from that beerly, amiable town) but Walter Greaza, the

NEW YORK—Things one New Yorker thinks about:

I had a mild disappointment the other day. Sat down for orange juice with Mac Smith, a burly man who runs the Andrew Newman cleaning-dyeing place that caters to so many celebrities—Milton Berle, Sonja Henie, Lynn Fontanne, Paulette Goddard, Cary Grant, et al—and waited for some riotous stories about the laughs and/or headaches of picking up stars' dirty wash. None came. The only item that lives up to Mac's days, he said glumly, is Berle's wine-colored rehearsal trousers. They're ready to melt away or disintegrate but Berle doggedly keeps on using them and getting them cleaned. I felt a little sorry for a man who has to get his daily kicks out of Milton Berle's pants.

Londoners are always muttering about their fogs. We've had a couple here in recent weeks that would shame any Soho mist. Looking out of my apartment windows toward the Hudson River, only thing I could see, and that faintly, was the Will Rogers beacon atop the Washington Bridge. . . If you like ice shows, the big Hollywood Ice Revue with Barbara Ann Scott now is packing Madison Square Garden, which brings up the logical question—whatever became of Henie? . . . The most spectacular piece of showmanship I have seen in months is on display at Radio City Music Hall, where a German fountain exhibit called "Dancing Waters" is making the customers go ooh and ah. Four thousand water jets and 10 thousand feet of wire are used, as well as 38 tons of water, handsomely colored, to create graceful and ballet-like effects.

One thing about New York, though; we seem to have uncovered a grammatical, literate and fairly entertaining disc jockey in Henry Morgan, the cantankerous comedian who broadcasts nightly from a restaurant called Hutton's, where once Laraine Day held forth. Most of the DJs—Jack Eigen, Barry Gray, etc.—have been either juvenile or plain dull, but the biter Morgan is for adults only. . . With Clifton Webb now playing acidulous baby-sitters or bandmasters in the film, I am a little nostalgic for the old days. He starred in the first musical comedy I ever saw, "As Thousands Cheer," and

"chief" on the TV show "Treasury Men In Action," hit the jackpot recently. Got a letter beginning "I was wondering if you can help me . . . being you are a Treasury man, you see, I have not received my refund on my income tax. The original form I sent in but they write and told me they did not receive it. . . ." Walter just grinned when he got it. He also has received letters tipping him off on people involved in a smuggling ring and the location of an illegal Richmond, Va., still.

New Yorkers never have been proud of their ethnically squalid waterfront conditions, especially since Pulitzer Prize-winning reporter Malcolm Johnson bared them like a surgeon laying open a cancerous kidney, but we winced more than ever this week when Ralph Champion, who writes exposes for the "London Sunday Pictorial," said our docks labor conditions are "rather like those in Britain 100 years ago." Ralph took a crack at Manhattanites "suffering from war and atom phobia in their most advanced forms" and local immigration officials who he found "scurly and rude." That about wraps us up for a little while.

I don't know how Hollywood does it. We had a big charity premiere of the Peggy Lee movie "The Jazz Singer" at the Paramount the other night. STAG LINES for men

by Bert Bacharach

Coronation Tie

FASHION: Britain's coronation year may put its stamp on men's wear on this side of the Atlantic. First sign of the new Elizabethan age is the tie worn by French singer-actor Roger Dann (left). It's decorated with the British lion in miniature. The tie displays another feature that's growing in popularity this year—it has vertical rather than diagonal stripes for a background pattern.

Amateur Chef: Are you a pan-cake maker? Try putting butter in the pancake mix instead of on the griddle. Less smoke. . . If you serve anything liberally flavored with garlic, follow the example of Manero's steak houses—and offer your guests chorophyll gum.

Different: Insurance tycoon Elmer Leterman has suits made with but a single pocket. Says they fit better that way. . . Winston Churchill rarely wears gloves, even in coldest weather.

... A certain fellow who can afford it flies all the way to Venice annually just to buy ready-made shoes. They cost but $9 a pair—but he figures they eventually come to about $216, including expenses.

Ten-Second Interviews: Crooner Russ Landi—"It's dangerous to pat yourself on the back while climbing the ladder to success." . . . Herman Hickman, who has gained twenty pounds since he quit coaching football—"It's relaxing not to have to rely on a nineteen-year-old quarterback for a living!"

Trouser Trick: If you leave suspenders on your trousers when you hang them from hangers, the suspenders are apt to drag on the floor. A reader contributes the following idea for keeping them from getting dusty or getting in the way: Before you clip the trousers in the hanger, put one suspender over each leg. (See drawing, right.) When they are hung up the braces will be held off the closet floor by the trouser crotch.

Handyman: A card table on edge, with two legs extended to hold it up, makes a good home movie screen. If it is a dark color, cover with a white cloth. . . Do not shake a can of paint before opening it—stir after opening. And in a partly used can, remove any skin which has formed on top before you stir.

Pass the Cigar: This week to—ex-welterweight champion Barney Ross, who's still in there punching for any fund-raising drive that will benefit servicemen or veterans.

$1,000 Being Sought In Damage Suit

A suit for $1,000 damages was filed in Allegany County Circuit Court by a South End man as a result of a head-on automobile collision on Thomas Street.

John Lee Shippe of 20 Laing Avenue docketed the court action against Ronald Lee Bailey of 119 Fifth Street.

Shippe, through his attorney, Albert A. Doub, contended Bailey's car approaching him from the opposite direction on Thomas Street suddenly veered into the path of his machine, causing a head-on collision.

The plaintiff requested the case be tried before a jury.

Detrick Named Head Of Bricklayers Local

Chester Detrick is the new president of Local 6, Bricklayers Union, having been elected at a meeting in the Allegany Trades Council Hall.

Other officers are Granville C. Pittman, vice president; George Griffith, financial secretary; Fred Carson, recording secretary.

John Dennison, business agent; Frank Boor, sergeant-at-arms; Lester McGill, Edward Dressman and William Dugan, trustees; Vernon Loy, deputy, and Earl Moore, alternate deputy.

Today In

dent in his "State of the Union" speech declared explicitly that employment by the government is not a "right" but a "privilege." This means that all the technical arguments about setting up courts of review and cross-examination witnesses as well as the contention that a government employee is innocent until proved guilty become irrelevant.

The government now will decide whether an employee is suitable and it need not give any reasons such as disability, security or anything else. It just gets rid of employees who talk too much, drink too much, or otherwise abuse their government positions. And that's what a loyalty-security program should have accomplished before, instead of letting persons of doubtful allegiance hang on in government positions where they could and in defiance public policy in ways adverse to the interests of the United States.

Salary Board Backs Plan For Wage Increases

Average Boost Would Be $230 A Year

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 4 (AP)—State employees stand to average raises of $230 under a pay plan announced today by the Standard Salary Board.

The complicated formula to distribute $3,620,000 recommended by Gov. McKeldin for state departments would allow boosts ranging from 15 per cent in the lowest bracket to 2 per cent in the highest.

Russell S. Davis, state employment commissioner, laid the proposed pay tables before the Senate Finance Committee. He was asked to come back again with a more detailed schedule so the senators may see how many in which departments will benefit from what funds.

Would Affect 14,000

The raises would take an appropriation of 2½ million dollars in general funds. McKeldin estimated the remainder could be absorbed by departments operating on special funds, those dedicated for specific purposes and automatically supplied such agencies as the State Roads Commission.

About 14,000 employees, including instructors in the teachers colleges, would get raises under the salary board plan.

James P. Slicher, secretary of the board which sets the pay in each job classification, said separate legislation would be necessary to hike state police salaries. This would require upward of $600,000 additional.

Slicher also said no date has been figured yet for hourly employees. Most of these are hired for roads work.

Would Aid Recruiting

The new scale for everyone else offers "higher entrance salaries to recruit new employees," Slicher explained.

Davis told the Finance Committee 75 per cent of state employees draw less than $3,500 a year. Only 10 per cent get more than $3,500.

At the bottom, a worker now getting $1,680 a year would schedule to $1,934. The whole schedule would eliminate the present starting level and replace it with amounts equal to current salaries given for one year of experience plus $170. Four per cent increases, instead of the current 5 per cent, would be allowed for each of the next five years.

Top salaries would be $15,320, allowed after five years in such positions as director of budget and procurement.

Pupils Thank Firemen After Tour Of Station

First Grade pupils at John Humbird School recently took a guided tour of Central Fire Station, then went back to school and decided to show their appreciation with a letter of thanks.

The letter, accompanied by one from their teacher, Miss Margaret Reid, said:

Dear Firemen,
Thank you for showing us the fire station. We had fun. Love,
First Grade, John Humbird School.

Appreciative firemen tacked the letter up on the station's bulletin board.

Sands, Hedrick Promoted By Celanese Corporation

Two members of the Amcelle plant staff have received promotions by the Celanese Corporation, according to Leslie L. Helmer, plant manager.

Benjamin H. Sands, 136 Queen Street, McClellan, has been named to the position of assistant superintendent of personnel and Walter N. Hedrick, Cresap Park, has been promoted to administrative assistant in the plant manager's office.

Sands has been a member of the Amcelle personnel staff since 1951. His other positions at Celanese include service in estimating and handling engineering labor problems as an assistant to the plant engineer.

In 1946 he joined Celanese after service with the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers as a warrant officer in charge of disposal of termination inventory for the Denver, Colo. district.

He graduated from Cornell University in 1939 with a B. S. degree in Administrative Engineering. During the same year he became staff supervisor with the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company in charge of construction of naval vessels.

Sands has been active in the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce for the past several years and the New Creek District

Stolen Purse, Costly Rings Are Recovered

$1,000 In Jewelry Taken By Children

A purse containing $40 in cash and $1,000 worth of jewelry has been returned to a woman shopper from whom it was stolen in a Baltimore Street store, police said last night.

Detective Lt. James E. Van said the articles were recovered yesterday and were returned to Miss Ursula A. Ward, 215 Beall Street, who had reported the theft Monday night.

Miss Ward, designer at Bopp's Flower Shop, said the tan leather pocketbook was stolen while she was shopping in the Lerner Shop on Baltimore Street.

On Tuesday, the pocketbook was found on Winow Street, its contents strewn along the street. The money and two valuable diamond rings were missing.

Detectives located the valuables yesterday and returned them to Miss Ward. Van said small girls were involved in the theft, but that no prosecution would take place.

Police also were investigating a complaint by C. W. Hacker of U. S. Route 40 the theft of a tire, a wheel and a jack from the automobile of C. W. Hacker, U. S. Route 40. Hacker said he discovered the thefts at noon Tuesday when he returned to his car, which had been parked on a South George Street lot.

John W. Miller, 921 Maryland Avenue, said a window at his home was pushed in between Saturday and early Monday, and a Zenith portable radio was stolen.

Youth Is Jailed Following Auto Chase In City

A local youth landed in the Allegany County Jail yesterday following a mad, night chase over at least seven Cumberland streets early yesterday morning.

Donald Swain, 20, of 908 Kentucky Avenue, was committed to the county lockup in default of $252.25 fines and costs after he pleaded guilty to four motor violations in Trial Magistrate Court.

Swain was arrested by City Officer Robert Hammann on Oldtown Road about 2 a. m. after the officer, in a cruiser, chased him through several city thoroughfares at break-neck speed.

Authorities said Swain's auto darted down city roads and around turns with speeds up to 70 miles per hour, and the driver ignored several stop signs during his night ride. When Swain reached Oldtown Road, he parked and turned off his lights to avoid arrest.

At a hearing in Trial Magistrate Court, Magistrate J. Milton Dick fined Swain $50 for reckless driving, $100 for operating a vehicle after his license was revoked and $100 for turning off his headlights to avoid prosecution and identification.

The magistrate suspended a $25 fine on a charge of exceeding 50 miles per hour.

Magistrate Dick also threw out a six-month term to the Maryland House of Correction. Dick explained that the youth has been drafted in the armed forces, has had his physical examination and is due to report for induction soon.

Swain's operator's license was revoked about eight months ago in Trial Magistrate Court on another motor violation, Dick added. Two other Cumberland men were given jail sentences yesterday by Magistrate Dick in Trial Magistrate Court.

Harry Reger, this city, was sentenced to six months in the House of Correction after he pleaded guilty to a charge of violating his parole.

James Trexler, also this city, was sentenced to six months in the Allegany County Jail on a charge of being a habitual drunkard. Authorities said he had been tried 13 times before on the same charge.

Valley Street Bridge

This artist's sketch was prepared by the J. E. Greiner Company, Baltimore, to give city officials an idea of the appearance of the proposed new Valley Street Bridge. Sketches of other bridges being planned at Market and Baltimore streets are being prepared by the firm. The engineers have used extensions of flood walls to be built along Wills Creek in planning the graceful span which will replace the bridge which was damaged by an explosion about 10 years ago. The sketch shows clearly the sloping walls of the channel which will speed flood water through the city on its way to the Potomac. City officials have expressed interest in a pre-stressed concrete bridge, which would provide an entire span on the profile of the section above the Western Maryland Railway tracks. The type will be decided by the Mayor and Council after all of the sketches arrive.

Leaders Named For Proposed JC Scout Troop

Local Newspapers Honored At Meet

Leaders for a scout troop to be sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce have been named, it was reported last night at a meeting of the organization at All Ghan County Club.

Laurence L. Horner, chairman of the scout committee, reported that a scoutmaster and assistant scoutmaster have been selected and that the Jaycees will proceed with plans to organize a troop.

Scoutmaster for the new troop will be Jack Pardez, and his assistant is William Scott, new member of the Jaycees. Pardez, a resident of Cumberland for five months, was an Eagle Scout in his boyhood in New York City.

The Jaycees scout committee will meet with officials of Potomac Council and Cumberland District, Boy Scouts of America, to complete organization plans.

At last night's meeting, the organization presented certificates of appreciation to the three local newspapers for their cooperation with the Jaycees.

A. T. Brust Jr., managing editor of The Cumberland News, accepted the award for the morning newspaper. Representatives from the Cumberland Evening Times and Cumberland Sunday Times were not present.

Jaycees also presented Charles B. Hornbrook, photographer for the three newspapers, with a cartoon of appreciation. The piece showed a picture of Hornbrook in the lens of a press camera. The caption over the drawing read: "One-Shot Charlie."

Other business of the group last night was the approval of a motion to oppose House Bill 62, providing for a state withholding tax. The bill calls for legislation allowing state income tax to be collected in the same method as Federal income tax.

Following the meeting, the group was entertained by William Hays, local magician, who presented a "Show of Magic."

Clinics Are Planned

The Health Department will hold a Child Hygiene conference today at 10 a. m. in Corriannville. Similar clinics are planned tomorrow at 10 a. m. in Bowman's Addition and at Mt. Savage.

Weather

An overcast formed over the Queen City yesterday blocking out Old Sol as mercury stopped in the low 40's. Stiff, cold winds were diminishing about 8 p. m. yesterday, but thermometers stayed just above freezing. Constitution Park weather station reported high temperature as 40 degrees; low as 27 and at 8 p. m. reading was 33 degrees. Prospects for today were better as the Weather Bureau predicted fair with moderate temperature. High today will be between 42 and 50.

Poster Contest Entry Deadline Is February 20

Deadline for the annual poster contest sponsored by the Governor's Committee to Promote Employment of the Physically Handicapped, is February 20.

J. Leo Delaney and Francis A. Kenney, co-chairman of the Allegany County committee, said yesterday they believe there is still plenty of time for aspiring artists to make the February 20 deadline.

The contest which has as its theme, "Hire the Handicapped—It's Good Business," is open to students in 11th and 12th grade secondary schools and undergraduates of any college, university or art school in Maryland.

Already many Allegany County students have entered the annual state competition.

Posters must be hand drawn, illustrated or lettered to carry out the theme of the contest, unmounted, size 15 inches by 20 inches, and suitable for reproduction by two-color silkscreen process. They must carry on the reverse side the artist's full name, address, year in school, name of instructor and name and location of school, and should be sent to 6 North Liberty Street, Baltimore 1, Md., by February 20.

Prizes for the four best posters will total $250, with a $100 Savings Bond going to the first place winner, and $75, $50 and $25 Bonds to subsequent places. Judges for the 1953 contest include Q. Richard Yardley, Sunpapers cartoonist; Edward S. King, director of the Walters Art Gallery; and Miss Kate M. Coplan of the Enoch Pratt Free Library.

W. Va. Republicans Air State Police Activities

Burchett Resigns As Superintendent

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Feb. 4 —Republicans in the West Virginia Legislature dropped some broad hints today that the ruckus kicked up by the resigning State Police Department head might influence their actions on appropriations.

Sen. Moats (R-Ritchie) introduced a resolution aimed at determining Gov. Marland's views on state police activities.

In an abrupt and angry letter W. E. Burchett resigned as superintendent last night. He gave as one of his main reasons a claim that Marland wanted the State Police to concentrate on road patrols and leave criminal phases of their work to local law enforcement agencies.

Shift Of Emphasis Noted

Marland denied this, but later explained at a news conference he had in mind a shift of emphasis because of complaints by travelers that they rarely saw state police patrols on the highways.

Moats proposed that a three-man committee of senators visit Marland and sound out his views. The committee would be instructed to report back within five days.

Moats told his colleagues that there is a proposal in the pending budget bill for appropriations to allow the employment of 20 additional state troopers.

The senator said he wanted to know how the program stacks up before he votes on such a proposal. Majority Leader Amos (D-Kanawha) opposed Moats' move for immediate consideration of the resolution. It was held on the calendar for consideration tomorrow.

Suggestion Not News

In the House, Del. George Rainden (R-Mason) told the delegates that the suggestion concerning the State Police was not news.

In the past, Rainden declared, "gamblers have tried to enact a law . . . confining activities of the State Police simply to road patrols."

"It appears . . . the governor is attempting to do by executive order what the Legislature refused to do by statute. It would be much better to abolish them (the State Police) than have a mockery made of them."

The House gave final action to the lobbyists' bill which caused such an uprising of facetious debate yesterday. The measure, requiring the registration of all paid lobbyists who seek to influence legislative action, passed 69-27 and was sent to the Senate.

All Gas, Auto Taxes Sought For Highways

Three Other Road Bills Introduced

ANNAPOLIS, Feb. 4 (AP)—A constitutional amendment making it mandatory for the state to spend all its income from auto licenses and gasoline taxes directly on the state's highways was proposed in the General Assembly today.

The bill by Dels. Robinson (D-Balto 4th) and Royston (D-Baltimore) would permit the governor to borrow money temporarily from the fund, providing he pay it back within six months.

The measure would have to have approval by three-fifths of the assembly before it could be submitted to the voters in the November general election in 1954.

Three other road bills were introduced.

One would limit traffic on the new Baltimore-Washington expressway to passenger cars only. Another would give the State Roads Commission the right to regulate the use of all expressways in the state regarding types of vehicles.

The third by Dels. Marshall and Lawler, Montgomery County Republicans, would cut down the allocated load limit of trucks.

The bill would reduce the axle load from 22,400 to 18,000 pounds, except trucks with coupled axles would be cut from 20,000 to 16,000 pounds and those with coupled axles less than 48 inches apart, from 18,000 to 14,000 pounds.

Obsolete Park Rules Dropped By City Board

Uniform Markers To Be Erected

The City Park Board has adopted a set of four simple rules for the use of Constitution Park.

Plans for a map of the park and uniform traffic signs for the city park area were also approved.

Only four rules survived after revising a long list of restrictions, many of which were obsolete.

The new regulations provide that nobody is to be permitted to use the park between midnight and 7 a. m., that the maximum speed of vehicles is to be 20 miles an hour, that no alcoholic beverages are permitted in the park area and that dogs must be kept on leash if brought into the park.

Uniform metal traffic signs will also be installed in the park, Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, street commissioner and a member of the park board, announced.

All other signs which have been placed in the park will be taken down, including those now placed on trees.

Mrs. Roeder said the city can scarcely expect people to respect trees in the park if trees are used as signposts by the city.

Charles R. Nuzum, city engineer, has been asked to prepare a simplified map of the park, showing the swimming pool, parking areas, picnic areas, amphitheater and entrances and exits.

The map will be painted on a signboard at the entrance to the park for the benefit of the throngs which use the park each day during good weather.

Probe Of Pistol Theft Continues

The theft of five pistols worth a total of $250 from a local hardware store was still under investigation last night after detectives announced they had cleared up four other recent thefts and burglaries.

Police said the .22 calibre pistols, a holster and some ammunition were taken from the Wilson Hardware Company's store at 30 North Mechanic Street some time over the weekend, probably early Monday.

One man was questioned in connection with the theft after two men who admitted taking part in three other burglaries denied knowledge of the Wilson case.

Police last night, however, said no one is in custody in connection with the theft.

Toey Is Named President Of Celanese Union

Lewis, Harris Win Important Posts

Neil Toey, Cresap Park, was elected president of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America (CIO), in a run-off election which ended last night.

A member of the local's Executive Board and union chairman of the Engineering Department, largest unit at the Amcelle plant, Toey defeated Playford Aldridge, who is completing his fourth term as president of the Celanese union.

Toey has been an active member of the union since 1936 and has held official posts in the local for many years.

Incomplete results of the run-off vote were announced early last night by George J. Abrams, director of the Honest Ballot Association of New York, which conducted the election.

Lewis, Harris Win

Five other officers were definitely decided last night by 9 p. m., but results of several Executive Board positions were undecided, pending count of the last ballots which were cast at 11:15 p. m. at the Amcelle plant.

Irvin Lewis, of the Spinning Department, was elected vice president, defeating Vito Dormio, also of the Spinning Department.

Melvin Harris, who was business agent of the local in 1950, defeated John G. Thomas, who has held the post of business manager for 10 years.

Balloting Is Heavy

Francis Harvey nosed out James E. Jones as warden of the union. Two members of the Executive Board had definitely been elected early last evening.

They are Frances Shimonek, of the Cafeteria Department, who was leading the board slate, and James T. Lynch.

Other positions on the board were in doubt, pending a recount of Executive Board votes and balloting on last night's "Cateye" shift.

Balloting in the runoff vote, which got under way Sunday morning, was heavy, and early last night was within 100 of the total vote cast last week.

Unity Conference To Elect Tonight

The Maryland Labor Unity Conference will elect officers at its meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in Allegany Trade Council Hall.

Paul L. Burley, secretary, said nominations will be open from the floor prior to the vote.

Other business slated will include a discussion on pending state and national political issues.

The Unity Conference has indicated support plans for the C. and O. Canal Parkway, pay raises for teachers, a boost in unemployment payments and the proposed 12-year road improvement plan.

Grass Fire Burns 10-Acre Tract

Two fire companies yesterday fought a stubborn grass fire on Shriver's Hill for nearly two hours as stiff breezes fanned flames over a ten-acre tract.

East Side Company answered the alarm at 2:45 p. m., then called in Central Company at 3:10 p. m. West Side Company filled in at Central Station during the blaze. The companies returned at 4:30 p. m.

Local Trucker Fined $90.75 On Overload

Paul Verdeen Smith, RFD 2, Box 251, this city, was fined $90.75 Tuesday in Trial Magistrate Court for an overload on his truck registration of 4,500 pounds.

Smith, his truck loaded with pulp wood, was arrested January 27 on Route 40 at Nave's Crossroads by Richard F. Boyle, State Roads Commission weight inspector.

Policemen To Hear Talks On Crime Investigation Today

Criminal investigation and balloting will be principal topics under discussion by more than 60 Maryland and West Virginia policemen today as the Maryland Police Association Regional School goes into its closing sessions.

The second and final day of the school will get under way at 8:30 a. m. with talks on interrogation and on criminal investigation, reports and records by State Police Captain G. E. Davidson.

Classes are being held on the second floor of the Naval and Marine Corps Reserve Training Center, McKaig's Hill.

State Police Sgt. Herman Heiger will talk on the technique of arrest, and the school will close at 4 p. m. after a talk on firearms by State Police Sgt. N. J. W. Lloyd.

Yesterday's session was devoted largely to traffic, evidence and courtroom procedure. Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long led off the first day of the school with a brief address of welcome, and Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn of Cumberland followed

Western Parkway Seems Assured; To Cost State Less Than $400,000

Hancock-Cumberland Civic, Business And Political Groups Unanimously Endorse Project

BY F. ALLAN WEATHERHOLT

News Staff Writer

Officials of Cumberland and Allegany County, along with representative business groups, joined with the town officials of Hancock and representatives of their business organizations, and unanimously endorsed a plan to complete the C & O Canal Parkway from Hancock to Cumberland.

At a meeting in Annapolis Tuesday, arranged by State Senator Robert B. Kimble, the plan for the western section of the parkway was unfolded by representatives of federal and state officials, and no opposition was raised in any corner.

From the outset, it was evident that Senator Kimble, members of the State Planning Commission, the State Roads Commission, the United States Department of Interior and others have been working diligently to devise a method by which this improvement could be made possible and acceptable to all groups and individuals.

Resolve Differences

Termed by some a compromise, actually, it is nothing more than clarification of the program and elimination of a few minor objections so that now, all interested parties have met on common ground and resolved their differences with a green light to the General Assembly and the Congress.

One of the major objections which had been raised, as pointed out by I. Alvin Pasarew, director of the Maryland Planning Commission, was the possibility that the parkway would block off the river and the use of the river to industries, sportsmen and communities who desired open access to it.

This objection is being resolved by U. S. Senate Resolution No. 711, which has been introduced by Senator J. Glenn Beall, and which has been approved by the National Park Service and Department of Interior.

Will Assure Access
Passage of this measure will assure the access to the river and will permit utilities etc. to go over or under the road, and will leave the river accessible for industrial use and other development.

Pasarew said the state has studied the river the possible future development of hydro-electric systems etc., and with the federal government removing the restrictions as first proposed the road will not now interfere with these long-range and distant possibilities.

Harry T. Thompson, representing the United States Department of Interior and the National Park Service, outlined the plan for the Hancock to Cumberland parkway.

Is $10 Million Plan

He said the federal government will spend an estimated $10,000,000 to build a two lane highway from Hancock to Cumberland along the canal route, will develop recreational and scenic areas, will construct a transportation museum in Cumberland and will develop, supervise and operate the whole park area, if the state will furnish needed land for additional right of way.

He said a total of 4100 acres of land is needed in the section from Hancock to Cumberland to provide a strip about 835 feet long for the entire distance.

For parkway purposes, under the National Park system, this much land is necessary to develop the desired recreational facilities and provide sufficient area for the preservation of scenic beauty, forest lands and provide areas for wild life management etc.

Will Be Freeway

The project, he explained is more than just a road around the mountains between Hancock and Cumberland. It is modernly constructed roadway, scenicly developed. It will not be a high speed super highway without curves.

There will be plenty of gradual curves because the route of the river and canal must be followed. It will, however, be free of grades.

At many points, the canal will be replaced so it will hold water, as attractions for tourists, to preserve it as an historic asset, as well as for recreation such as fishing and swimming.
